Sen. Fong and A Soft Sell

You think of Hiram L. Fong, senior United States senator from Hawaii, on seeing a news item about him, and you feel sorry for the poor fellow. Just imagine! He can't join any of the Ku Klux Klans. The Councils would blackball him. The doors of many of the more dedicated of the South's Christian churches would be closed against him. He couldn't eat in some of the restaurants. Consider how barren his life must be.

But none of this seems to worry Sen. Fong. He gives no impression of being deprived of the good things of life. Perhaps more than any other man in the Senate, he knows the meaning of our democracy. He learned in a hard school. For the organizations which love their prejudices more than their country, he entertains the contempt and sympathy they deserve.

It is a sad thing when men commit themselves to hatred and deceit. He knows this because he met some of these along the path he has traveled. He has come a long hard road. He has endured humiliation and hurt. But none of it injured him. Nor has he permitted it to embitter him or destroy his ability to see clearly and live by truth.

Sen. Fong is now on a tour of 14 Asian countries. Japan was his first stop. He will visit all of Asia that remains free of Communist control. He will be of great, perhaps profound, interest to the millions of Overseas Chinese in the many lands of Southeast Asia.

The Product

The product he has to offer on this soft-sell tour is himself and Mrs. Fong.

Sen. Fong's parents were penniless, uneducated Chinese laborers who found jobs in Hawaii. They saw the opportunity for their children. They did not dream of the United States Senate.

Young Fong did go to school. In the best Horatio Alger tradition he earned money and studied hard. He worked his way through the University of Hawaii. So good was his record he had a chance to go to Harvard Law School. He did odd jobs there to help pay his way. He returned to Hawaii with his degree and began practice of law. He married a charming young lady of Chinese parentage. He served his country with distinction in the war years. He became a successful attorney. He began to be a figure in Hawaiian politics.

When Hawaii became a state he was elected to the Senate of the United States. He is the first Asian to attain that eminence.

Now, with the Congress in recess, he is on an Asian tour. What he hopes to do is obvious. In Asian countries the people will see he and his wife are Asian. There will be interviews on radio, television and in the press. The people of Southeast Asia know what it means to be a United States senator. They are aware of the prestige of that office. They will ask him questions about himself, his history, his country. He will answer.

Able Man

Sen. Fong is an honest, able man. He will tell them that while American democracy is not perfect, because some men still do not want to make citizenship an equal thing for all citizens, the American dream of opportunity is still intact. He can tell them of how he met with prejudice and with the humiliations offered by those whose immaturity and self esteem depend on regarding themselves as superior beings. American democracy is not perfect. He knows that for years many congressmen voted against admission of Hawaii as a state because they feared men of the Chinese or Japanese race might be elected to the Senate.

But the Asians will not be able to argue away the fact of Sen. Hiram L. Fong. There he is. He, Chinese by race, is a member of the Senate and Congress of the United States.

If we are to accept the challenge of communism we cannot do less than that—to make the benefits and opportunities of citizenship equally available for all our people. To do less is to invite decline and defeat. Whatever our personal feelings, we must put our country and its future first.

Atom-Armed B52 Crashes; 3 Are Killed

HARDINSBURG, Ky. (AP)—A B52 carrying a nuclear weapon and a tanker refueling it caught fire and crashed Thursday night, killing at least three men.

The Strategic Air Command at Omaha said there was no danger of atomic explosion and no need for evacuation.

TANKER EXPLODES

A witness who saw the explosion said he talked with the pilot of the KC135 tanker who told him the tanker exploded as it was refueling the B52 Stratofortress and that the B52 caught fire.

There were four known survivors and perhaps as many as eight dead. The tanker carried eight men, the B52 four.

There were conflicting reports as to how the crash occurred. Wellington Mathews of Fordsville, who talked with the unidentified pilot of the tanker, said the tanker exploded while refueling.

Other sources, including the Federal Aviation Agency, said the two planes collided during the refueling exercise.

FALL IN HILLS

The planes crashed south of here in rugged hill country. Mathews said the flaming fuselage of the tanker crashed only 100 yards from a farmhouse seven miles southwest of Hardinsburg.

Mathews said there were parachutes strewn along the ground where he found the tanker pilot, and ammunition as well.

The survivors were hustled to a store at Glen Dean, where they were questioned.

The Defense Department said disaster teams were en route from

De Gaulle Endorsed On Algeria

PARIS (AP)—The French National Assembly early Friday voted President De Gaulle a free hand in his effort to bring peace to Algeria thorugh self-determination.

The official vote tally showed 441 voting in approval of the government's Algerian policy, 23 opposing, and 85 abstaining or not voting.

The constitution of the Fifth Republic does not require Parliament to pass on the President's actions. The massive endorsement of his policy gave him added strength to end the five-year nationalist rebellion.

Those who voted against the government included a few who had bolted the Gaullist majority party, Union for the New Republic—a dozen or so Conservatives, the 10 Communists and a few free-wheeling nonparty deputies. Most of the Algerian deputies boycotted the session. The opposition Socialists voted with the majority.

The assembly voted after Premier Debre in a hard-hitting speech declared the union between Algeria and France must be maintained.

Although De Gaulle has declared for the principle of self-determination by the Algerians he has made clear that he favors local autonomy for the country, not independence. Opponents of his plan feared, however, that autonomy would only be a stepping stone to independence.

Symington Calls Dixie Vital in '60

By BRUCE GALPHIN

Sen. Symington

Symington was interviewed at the Atlanta airport, where he stopped off en route to two South Georgia speaking engagements.

Though considered a leading contender for the 1960 nomination, the Missourian steadfastly refused to be drawn into comments about his intentions.

QUERY 'HYPOTHETICAL'

He brushed aside a as "hypothetical" a question about whether he would actively seek support of Southern convention delegates.

But asked whether any candidate should woo Dixie, he replied: "If you're after something, you're after something."

If anybody decided to be a candidate, he would be foolish not to seek support in the South, the senator said.

Symington has considerable support among many Southern politicians despite a liberal voting record.

Addressing the Thomasville Rotary Club Thursday night, Symington said the problem facing the

Not Guilty, Housewife Tells Jury

Denies Holdups Of 2 Loan Firms

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Mrs. Kathryn Anderson testified Thursday she was innocent of the armed robbery of two savings and loan association branches.

Speaking calmly, the stately 30-year-old housewife spent an hour and four minutes answering questions asked by her attorney, Drew Redden, of Birmingham.

The mother of three said flatly she never robbed anybody. She also said that money used to make up a fund shortage at an insurance company in Atlanta where she formerly worked was hers and had been saved for her by her father.

SAYS MONEY HERS

Mrs. Anderson was charged with the noon-hour robberies of two suburban Birmingham savings and loan offices in 1958.

She said the money she applied toward making up the insurance company shortage was obtained from her father in March 1958.

"My father gave me an envelope," she said. "I took the money out and counted it—$1,689." She said the money was hers.

IDENTIFIED BY 2

Two bank officials placed Mrs. Anderson in their branch office about the time of one of the robberies. But both said they couldn't pin down the exact time to the exact minute.

Mrs. Anderson, wearing a navy blue dress with white trim, went to the stand calmly at the end of the fourth day of her trial.

She sat down, crossed her legs, laid her left hand in her lap and extended her right arm along the chair arm. She held that position almost without moving for the 64 minutes she testified.

Mrs. Anderson was asked if she could detail her activities on Feb. 28, 1958—the day of one of the robberies. She said she couldn't other than through some records she had such as a bank deposit slip.

But when asked about May 22,

Businessman Hides in Car Shoots, Kills Wife and Self

FT. VALLEY (AP)—A prominent Ft. Valley businessman died here Thursday of a self-inflicted gun wound about two hours after he had shot his wife to death, according to police.

Ft. Valley police officer Claude Pender said Vance Upchurch, 30-year-old wholesale gasoline distributor, shot his wife, Madeline, through the head as she was driving the couple's station wagon along a city street.

The officer said Upchurch then shot himself in the head with a .22 caliber revolver. Pender quoted C. G. Aultman, a witness to the shooting, as saying Mrs. Upchurch was driving along Vinesville street here when her husband raised up from behind the front seat where he had been hiding and put his left arm around her neck and fired one shot into her head.

The officer said the station wagon had come to a stop on the edge of the street but the motor was still running when he arrived. He said Mrs. Upchurch

Union Eases Pay Demands; Steel Talks Resume Today

By JOSEPH A. LOFTUS
(Copyright 1959, The New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON — The United Steelworkers of America made a new strike-ending proposal to industry Thursday, offering a sizable cut in its money demands for a 2-year contract.

The new proposal calls for a total "package" improvement worth 21½ cent an hour over the 2-year period, plus limited cost-of-living increases.

The proposal was circulated among officials of the strikebound industry tonight and will be on the table when the company and union bargaining teams meet at 11 a.m. Friday.

No offer was made on the controversial work rules problem.

Company and union negotiating teams agreed Thursday to resume direct negotiations under the prod of President Eisenhower's chief emergency fact-finder who said, in effect, he had found the industry's bargaining position more rigid than the union's.

Dr. George W. Taylor, chairman of the 3-man board of inquiry set up under the Taft-Hartley Act emergency procedure, questioned the industry's position both on money and on rules. He told both sides they ought to consider referring the decision to an umpire or, better still, work it out themselves.

Dr. Taylor also told newsmen

"CHRONIC SCHIZOPHRENIA"
Mrs. Anjette Donovan Lyles

By CELESTINE SIBLEY
Constitution Staff Writer

MACON—A subdued but fairly serene Anjette Donovan Lyles Thursday night described her reprieve from the electric chair as both "the lesser of two evils" and the intervention of a Divine Providence.

"I'm real happy and pleased that God saw fit to spare my life," the silver-haired convicted arsenic poisoner said in an interview in Bibb County jail. "It might be my opportunity to do some religious work in Milledgeville State Hospital. I wish you would put something in the paper thanking all the good Christian people all over the world who have prayed for me and written to me."

Earlier, Mrs. Lyles expressed perturbation that the verdict of three psychiatrists might convince other people that she is insane.

"I don't think I'm crazy," Anjette said seriously. "I hate for people to say I'm crazy, but at least my child can live this down and she couldn't live it down if I went to the electric chair."

Mrs. Lyles referred to her younger daughter, Carla, 8, whom she has not seen in 18 months. Mrs. Lyles was convicted for the arsenic death of her older daughter, Marcia, the last of a chain of four relatives she is alleged to have killed with arsenic.

Awaiting Transfer by Vandiver

The shadow of the electric chair faded for Anjette Donovan Lyles Thursday when Gov. Vandiver ordered her committed to Milledgeville State Hospital on the strength of a ruling of insanity.

A special sanity commission composed of two psychiatrists and a state hospital physician gave the governor a report in which it was held that the convicted murderess is insane and suffering from "chronic paranoid schizophrenia."

Vandiver said that since the doctors found Mrs. Lyles insane, he considers it "mandatory" to send her to the mental hospital under provisions of state law.

LAW FORBIDS

Georgia law forbids the execution of insane persons.

Mrs. Lyles, a former Macon restaurant operator, had been under the death penalty a year for the ant-poison murder of her nine-year-old daughter. She is also charged, but not convicted, of fatally poisoning two ex-husbands and one mother-in-law.

In Macon, where she is being held, Mrs. Lyles showed no emotion when informed she had escaped the death penalty.

Chief Jailer Ollie Goings said Mrs. Lyles' only comment was:

"Thank you, Mr. Goings, for telling me."

May Police TV Quizzes, U.S. Warns

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chairman Earl W. Kintner of the Federal Trade Commission warned the television industry Thursday that the government will be forced to police TV quiz shows if broadcasters cannot keep them free of deceit and fraud.

He told the National Association of Broadcasters that the industry faced a serious threat "brought on by too much lip service to high principles and not enough diligence in enforcing compliance with them."

Kintner said it will be up to Congress to decide whether his agency or the Federal Communications Commission should ride herd on quiz shows if broadcasters fail to act. He restated his belief that the FTC now lacks authority to move in on quiz shows.

Kintner took the same position

'Amnesia Victim' Held in Stab-Death

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—A Georgia salesman whose bloodstained automobile was found in Florida a week ago was booked on suspicion of murder at county jail Thursday.

Officers said that Ray Mitchell Fannin, 30, of Doraville, Ga., had admitted that he faked amnesia.

They said he also admitted stabbing an unidentified Air Force man with a pocket knife and shoving the body from the car somewhere between Hawkinsville, Ga., and Panama City, Fla.

He turned up Monday at Solana Beach, a few miles north of here, and appealed to a doctor for help as an amnesia victim.

At Hawkinsville, Sheriff J. A. Hill said there is "a lot more to Fannin's story that hasn't come out." "I still believe he is not completely telling the truth," Hill said.

The sheriff said that if a body

The Young Politicians

Jordan's Chances Hinge on Roads

By GENE BRITTON

The role of highways in politics has been the subject of many a discussion among professional politicians in many a smoke-filled room.

Highways will always get your man elected.

Highways never elected anyone.

Those are the extreme views, each with considerable following.

But there is a third view: The building of highways may not get you elected, but if you're in a position to build them and don't—watch out for the unhappy voter.

Sixth in a series

One man in the young politician category is intensely interested in these and other views on the subject of highways.

He is Robert Jordan of Talbotton, a member of the State Highway Board.

Jordan, 43, was president pro tem of the Senate during the last session of the legislature. As such, he was a member of Gov. Vandiver's inner circle. He resigned his post in the Senate at the close of the session to accept

Sun to Wink On City Again

A warming trend, stoked by the sun finally breaking through the clouds, is expected to extend over the weekend in north Georgia the Atlanta Weather Bureau said.

Temperatures are expected to range from 50 to 72 degrees Friday, and from 54 to 75 degrees Saturday. Extremes in Atlanta Thursday were 52 and 66.

2,000 Battle Raging Fires In California

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—An "army" of 2,000 men fought a hit-and-run war against a giant brush fire which forced evacuation of 30 houses late Thursday in big Tujunga Canyon northeast of here.

Smoke from the fire and another less serious blaze near Malibu shrouded the entire Los Angeles area on the second successive day in which the temperature exceeded 90 degrees.

75 EVACUATED

The embattled crews fighting the fire in the San Gabriel mountains northeast of here ordered evacuation of about 75 persons Thursday afternoon in the Big Tujunga canyon. The canyon is along the "hot" northern edge of the blaze which broke out Tuesday in the Angeles National Forest and has threatened foothill homes in the communities of Altadena and La Canada.

The Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors declared the fire territory a disaster area because of Thursday's serious outbreaks.

"Borate bombers"—planes capable of dousing flames with borate solution and water — were used to fight the flames on the north flank, where it was virtually impossible to battle the fire on foot.

WORST IN TUJUNGA

Most of the homes evacuated Thursday afternoon in Big Tujunga were small structures, but hundreds of other buildings faced possible danger if wind conditions worsen.

The full force of the fire seemed to explode in Tujunga Canyon. Fourteen families in an area known as La Paloma Flats were the first advised to leave and an evacuation center was set up at Mt. Gleason Junior High School in Sunland.

However, the Topanga Canyon fire northwest of here — only 1½ miles inland from the Pacific Ocean — apparently was not as serious as first was feared. Hope was expressed it could be controlled sometime during the night.

Some 225 acres were burned over in an area adjoining the devastated sector where 79 residences were burned last New Year's Eve.

Nineteen planes were used to drop borate bombs and water on the extremely rough, heavy brush in the northern half of the fire area, and at Brown mountain—on the northern outskirts of Altadena.

Hooper and other fire officials expressed fear the winds, 20 to 30 miles per hour through early afternoon, might worsen during the night Down canyon winds in Sutton and Mullally canyons would spread flames to Briggs Terrace.

Homes in the Briggs Terrace area at La Canada—on the northwest corner of the fire perimeter—also were in possible danger.

Soviets Join Antarctic Peace Call

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Soviet Union joined free world countries Thursday in calling for a ban on military use of the antarctic and a guarantee for unhampered scientific inquiries there.

The cordial atmosphere at the opening of a U.S.-sponsored, 12-nation conference was warm enough to melt some of the ice at the South Pole.

Delegates openly voiced hope that the conference would produce in a few weeks a treaty outlawing any military use of the vast, unsettled subcontinent where scientists of the 12 countries have been cooperating under the International Geophysical Year program.

There were references to an improved international climate following Soviet Premier Khrushchev's visit with President Eisenhower.

It was the first appearance of a Soviet delegation at an international conference since last month's talks, and Western diplomats were hoping the thaw would continue at other East-West meetings.

U.S. To Launch 10 In 'Rocket Week'

By JOHN W. FINNEY

WASHINGTON—The United States, in cooperation with other nations, will hold an international rocket shoot in mid-November to probe the nature of the earth's upper atmosphere.

As its contribution to International Rocket Week, running Nov. 16-22, the U.S. will launch 10 instrument-laden rockets to altitudes as high as 1,000 miles.

The week-observance is being conducted as part of International Geophysical Cooperation-1959, a continuation of the International Geophysical Year program of 1957-58 Under the leadership of the International Scientific Committee for space research, known as COSPAR, several nations will fire sounding rockets into the upper atmosphere during the seven-day period.

INTENSIVE WEEK

U.S. officials believe that the week will see one of the most intensive probings of the upper atmosphere yet conducted. From the simultaneous rocket shoots around the world, it is hoped, will come a better understanding of the upper atmosphere, its composition, and its changes caused by solar radiation.

The 10 rockets to be fired by the U.S. will be launched from sites as widely separated as Fort Churchill on Hudson Bay and Eglin Air Force Base in Florida.

In announcing the U.S. plans, the U.S. National Committee for the International Geophysical Year, said the following rocket launchings were scheduled:

ARMY ACTIVE

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration will launch two Nike-ASP rockets from Wallops Island, Va., one to measure upper atmosphere winds at heights up to 150 miles, and the other to investigate X-ray and Lyman-alpha ultra-violet ray emissions from the sun.

The Army Ballistic Research Laboratories will send up two Nike-Cajun rockets from Fort Churchill to determine the water vapor content of the atmosphere from 18 to 60 miles' altitude and two specially-assembled five-stage rockets from Wallops Island to beasure the electron densities between 50 and 1,000 miles.

The Air Force Geophysics Research Directorate will fire one Aerobee rocket from Fort Churchill carrying a magnetometer to measure the earth's magnetic field and two rockets from Eglin Air Force Base carrying instruments to explore the density of micrometeorites.

The Naval Research Laboratory will fire an Aerobee rocket from White Sands, N.M.

Half of the total was spent on daily and Sunday newspapers, according to figures compiled by the association's Bureau of Advertising. The rest was split about evenly between books and magazines.

Race Issue No Burden, Says Russell

Points to State's Industrial Growth

ASHBURN (AP) — Investment of one hundred million dollars in new industrial plants in Georgia this year was pointed to Thursday by Sen. Russell as giving the "lie" to claims the state's stand on school segregation would hurt the state industrially.

"It is significant," Russell said in a speech prepared for a Chamber of Commerce dinner, "that Georgia's industrial growth is proceeding faster this year than last.

"This gives the lie to those false prophets who dolefully predicted that new industry would steer clear of Georgia because we are determined to operate our public schools in a manner that is to the best interest of all our people."

PRAISES TREATMENT

Russell said many sound reasons account for the state's industrial progress. He listed fair treatment for business from state and local governments, fair tax laws, the state's central location on a growing southeastern market and excellent land, water and air transportation.

In addition, he said, the state is blessed with an adequate supply and potential supply of water needed for industrial development.

Lack of coordinated efforts has hampered maximum utilization of the state's water potential, Russell said. He added:

"Under a law I sponsored last year, a federal commission headed by Jim Woodruff Jr., of Columbus, has now undertaken a study to formulate a plan for the overall development of our entire river and water resources. The plan to be developed will not be limited to the immediate areas near the major rivers but will encompass the entire state."

GOAL SEEN

The commission is expected to require two years to complete its plans.

Russell reviewed his efforts in promoting agricultural research, his opposition to Secretary of Agriculture Benson's farm program and civil rights proposals. On the latter subject he commented:

"A lot of Northern people may be beginning to suspect that some of their politicians have been playing a cynical political game with the civil rights question to perpetuate themselves in office.

"I am firmly convinced that much of the racial tensions and violence plaguing the North is a direct product of the continual agitation of this phoney issue. And the politicians responsible for it may have created a Frankenstein that they cannot control."

Russell said the international climate has undergone a profound change as a result of the visit of Premier Khrushchev to this country and President Eisenhower's impending return visit to Russia.

"Before his arrival, I was greatly apprehensive about the wisdom of the President's decision to invite our acknowledged enemy to visit our country as an honored guest. But on balance, I believe the net result of his visit has been good.

Committee Will Hear Garland

Atlanta attorney Reuben A. Garland, who is presently free on bond while appealing a 40-day contempt of court sentence, will appear Friday before a grievance committee of attorneys appointed by Fulton Superior Court.

Garland, in confirming that he is to appear before the body, declared:

"I am being persecuted. My cilents are being persecuted. My persecution stems from the 10-minute unanimous verdict of acquittal of my innocent client George Bright. George Bright was charged with bombing the Jewish Temple."

The grievance committee, it was learned, has already heard testimony on alleged complaints against Garland and is holding the Friday hearing to hear from Garland and to review testimony before making a recommendation on the complaints to Superior Court judges.

Garland received the contempt sentence from Judge Jeptha C. Tanksley at the close of the Bright trial for alleged contemptuous conduct. The contempt order was later overruled as being not specific enough and Judge Tanksley drew a new order.

Open Phone Saves Woman from Rape

MILLEN (UPI)—An open telephone line was credited by police Thursday with saving a young housewife from being raped by a Negro intruder.

Law enforcement authorities arrested Frank Strong Jr., 17-year-old Negro, and charged him with assault and battery and assault with intent to rape.

The incident occurred Tuesday but was not revealed until Thursday.

Authorities said the housewife was chatting on the phone with a friend when the intruder knocked on her door. Leaving the telephone receiver off the hook, she opened the door, authorities said and the Negro, wielding a butcher knife, forced his way in.

The woman's screams were heard by her friend whose name police would not reveal. She called police and the woman's husband, who was at work.

Authorities said the Negro, still clutching the butcher knife, cut his way through the back screen door of the home and fled.

A neighbor told police he had seen a Negro prowler in the area earlier and furnished a description. Strong was arrested minutes later at his home here.

Strong was transferred to another jail, authorities said, because of "many hotheads and rumors of possible mob violence."

Jenkins County Sheriff Wilber Taylor refused to give any information on the incident. He told United Press International "I'm sorry, but I have promised the woman I would not give out any information. She doesn't want to see it in the papers."

Georgia law forbids publication of names of rape or attempted rape victims.

British Bar Bans AF Men

GREAT YARMOUTH, England (UPI)—Snack bar owner George Roberts said Thursday he has put his place off limits to American servicemen because "up per cent of them really are nice lads, but the others are just roughs."

He said two airmen from nearby Sculthorpe Air Base hit him with a bottle. The Rir Force called it an isolated incident.

'Settle Your Strike,' The Nation Warns

The fact-finding board in the steel strike, headed by Dr. George W. Taylor, a veteran arbiter of labor disputes, is to be commended for efforts to end the strike before the President is forced to invoke injunctive procedures under the Taft-Hartley Law.

But apparently it will take longer than the Friday deadline set by the President merely to establish facts, much less make recommendations.

The board has asked for and received an extension in the deadline until Monday. A last-ditch effort to bring management and the unions together will be made Sunday afternoon. The country hopes this will bring the long-anticipated break which could at least result in a truce, resumption of bargaining and opening of the mills.

It looks more and more in the interests of both the industry and labor to effect a voluntary truce without use of Taft-Hartley. As Dr. Taylor says, both have endangered the whole principle of collective bargaining. In this basic industry to the national economy, the public's interest comes first.

Unemployment figures are beginning to mount in spite of the good September report. Estimates now place the number idled in other industries by the steel strike at 25,000 a week and this is climbing.

Failure to settle the dispute quickly will invite congressional action and federal controls which nobody wants. But this is not just industry-wide and union-wide but concerns every citizen of the United States.

The ability and willingness of free labor and management to bargain collectively and to act in the public interest are on trial. Both should realize that fact before it is too late.

Mental Health Plans Are Most Encouraging

Reorganization of the Georgia Department of Public Health in order to beef up the mental health program represents another giant step toward the state facing up to its long-neglected responsibilities in this field.

The major change is the forthcoming creation of a new mental health unit within the department. It is to be directed by a psychiatrist with administrative background.

Also under consideration is the revamping of the State Board of Health in order to appoint some psychiatrists to membership. This, too, would be in keeping with new emphasis being placed on mental health.

As for the Health department, it seems to be moving at such a pace in regard to administrative functions that the eventual creation of a separate state agency for mental health, as recommended by the Schaefer committee, appears increasingly remote.

We appreciate the department's zeal. It is to be hoped that it will measure up in all respects in discharging the duties assigned it. If so there will be no need to divorce it from its new responsibilities. Time will provide the answer. Steps taken thus far are for the most part all to the good.

Meanwhile, Dr. Orville MacKinnon, superintendent of the Milledgeville State hospital, has pointed out that there is an abundance of enthusiasm about effecting improvements at the institution but there remains a crippling shortage of personnel to carry out the program envisioned. Especially does that apply to psychiatrists, psychologists, therapists and social workers.

While progress is being made to overcome some of these shortages, all concerned would do well to intensify their efforts in this regard. It takes more than enthusiasm to cure the mentally ill.

How About Special Day To Hail FFA President?

The Georgia Future Farmers of America organization, which over the years has produced a long line of national champions, has a new claim to fame.

Jim Thomas of Patterson is the newly-elected national president of the FFA. As such he will be the leader of more than 380,000 young men.

He will represent them in a tour across the country during which he will meet with many top figures in business, civic and educational circles.

Although Georgians have won an abundance of highly important honors in FFA competitions, this is the first time a member from our state has been chosen national president.

His election brings new pride of achievement to all Georgia and he deserves due recognition. We respectfully suggest that "Jim Thomas Day" be designated with an appropriate celebration to be held in his home county of Pierce and that citizens from throughout the state participate in the occasion.

Young Bobby Is Dead But His Eyes Live On

There are many stories in the news which tug at the heart. None will do so more than the small one about a 45-year-old woman, blind for 42 years, who now sees.

She sees through the corneas of a 12-year-old boy who died in a traffic accident Sept. 30. Young Bobby Jenness, along with other members of his family, thought it was a wonderful thing that people with good eyes could will them for use to others after death. Three months before he was killed he willed his eyes to an eye bank.

The corneas were transplanted into the blind eyes of Mrs. Duane Vincent. She had never seen her own son, aged 10. She now has seen him and wept over him. She has visited Mrs. Jenness and the two mothers have wept over the boy whose eyes have given sight. "It is a great consolation," said the mother of the son who died in the accident, "to know that his eyes still live in you and that you can see because of him. I know of no better memorial."

Nor do we.

The eye banks will accept the healthy eyes of any person who wishes to will them.

One wonders sometimes in reading such stories why there are those who doubted the stories of Biblical miracles. We repeat many of them today.

Use of 'K9' Corps Is Worth Giving a Try

The experiment authorized by the police committee of the Board of Aldermen for use of dogs in police work will be watched with interest. Six volunteer policemen will work with and train six German shepherd dogs to assist with certain hazardous police duties, including investigation of burglaries.

Use of dogs in other cities, notably Baltimore, has proved effective. That there are dangers is admitted. Utmost care must be used to keep them under control. Obviously their use must be limited to those situations in which the police themselves are handicapped.

The employment of "K9" corps by the armed forces proved effective in many situations, especially during wartime. These highly intelligent animals can be trained to perform many functions.

At any rate, the police department and the community will see a thorough test of effectiveness of use of these dogs in law enforcement. If in practice it strengthens law enforcement without endangering the innocent, the community will approve.

Atlantans Get Chance To Learn Cancer Facts

Don't let the somber thought spoil your game, but the next time you are in a golf foursome or sit down for a few hands of Canasta, consider the sad statistical fact: One among the four of you will have cancer.

And with only one of three among the one-in-four stricken with the disease will the cancer be arrested.

Those are the heartless facts as of 1959.

They alone will be enough to insure a capacity crowd tonight at the Academy of Medicine Auditorium, 875 West Peachtree, when five doctors specializing in the field discuss "Cancer—The Facts, the Hope, the Future."

Tonight's forum is the second in a series sponsored in the public interest and service by the Fulton County Medical Society.

The doctors are offering the personnel, the planning, the exhibits and the medical knowledge.

We are sure Atlantans are grateful for this service.

Now it is up to the public to acquire the information and put it to use.

Factual information is a powerful weapon but only when it is translated into positive action.

State Legislatures this year, according to a Tax Foundation, Inc. survey, have effected 111 changes in state taxes. Of that number, 87 were increases in existing taxes and 12 others were new taxes.

Governors of no less than 31 states in messages to their respective Legislatures requested tax raises totaling $1.5 billion.

In light of what has occurred tax-wise in other states this year, the achievement of the Vandiver administration in Georgia in holding the line becomes more remarkable than at first glance.

Chattanoogan Says Lincoln, Not Lee, Was Greater Man in War Between the States

Chattanooga — This is in reference to a recently published letter by Vince Salerno praising the Southern forces and leadership in the War Between the States. From the tone and wording I would guess the writer to be a misplaced Northerner or an extreme idealist.

He has yet to come to or has overlooked the part played during this era by Abraham Lincoln. While it is not my intention or desire to detract from the greatness of Lee, nevertheless at the start of the war his love of state was so much greater than his love of country that he could easily have been a Yankee general had not Virginia seceded.

Therefore, through destiny instead of choice he ultimately directed the military forces of the Southern Confederacy which would have divided this country into two weak, impotent parts. Sherman, who was dedicated to the country's preservation under Lincoln and who used methods of destruction since accepted and surpassed by civilized armies, was a piker by comparison with the Southern politicians of the time, who in 1861 (in fact 30 years before) embarked on what they intended would be the biggest wrecking job in history—the destruction of the Union.

Who knows but what Lincoln through his successful contention that not one of the Southern states had ever left the Union, saved both North and South at some later date in history from a fate much worse than the defeat of 1865. CHARLES P. McELROY.

Police Are Upheld In Coffee-House Raid

Atlanta—I'm glad the police nipped the Coffee Club in the bud. I hope every place and every time an outlandish mess crops up there will be police to stop them before they get out of hand. I think it speaks well for the Atlanta police to be at the right place at the right time. I agree with Joe Salem. Let's keep New York in New York and the South the way it is. Why not have the coffee-drinking girls and boys drink their coffee at home where the dad and mother no doubt would be glad to find out that coffee was as strong a drink as their children were drinking?

Missourian Defends Broiler-Type 'Hen'

Lanagan, Mo.—As I live in the center of the broiler-growing section of the Ozarks, I feel that I should speak up in defense of the "small hen" of two or three pounds.

I am sure the chicken cooked for Mr. K. at Coon Rapids was delicious. I would say that it would be called "smothered" by us in these parts but it could be any way and still be delicious. The fact that it weighed two or three pounds does not mean that it was a "broiler" of eight or 10 weeks of age. It could be fried Southern style, baked or even stewed with dumplings. An eight-week-old chicken will be tender any way you cook it.

MAY L. BEST.

Brave Don't Cheat But Frightened Do

FCC POWERLESS AGAINST RIGGED QUIZ PROGRAMS: Headline. "But wasn't that cheating?" asked the little girl, shocked. Yes, honey, that was cheating. If you or your brothers or your sister did it you would get walloped good. If it confuses you that some grownups cheat, don't let it . . . that is the way it is.

Try not to feel bad about it. Most people are good people. The ones who cheat are scared, frightened stiff by life. Brave people don't cheat. They don't have to.

It goes something like this. For your ninth birthday day before yesterday you got a bike. Well, it wasn't just for your birthday — it was for a lot of other things, like the good grades you bring home and the good things you do generally.

Your little brother doesn't make as good grades as you.

It's because he is a little boy and little boys are downright noodle - headed from all the life happening around them, and if HIS little brother gets through first grade without tearing the schoolhouse down inadvertently it will surprise me.

But you are all trying very hard; you want your bikes, the praise for accomplishment, all the good things.

Grownups want them to . . . sometimes so bad they cheat to get them.

And when one does, it makes it look bad for all other grownups, in the eyes of children. But the thing you must remember is, again, that most folks are good folks and that cheating is always wrong, no matter who does it or how.

And most importantly, honey! This part: You will, if you haven't already, hear another kid say, "Well if grownups cheat and get away with it, why not us?"

Simply because only scaredy-cats cheat. Got it?

The men who cheated in making the TV shows were so scared they wouldn't get a bike or whatever they wanted that they convinced themselves and each other that there was really nothing wrong with it.

The little boy who tells you it is all right to cheat because everybody does is trying to be a cynic. Laugh at him. There are other ways to win over cynics, but that is the best.

But cheating is not funny.

So don't forget that, and go ahead and watch the TV and feel sure that most people just like you and your brothers and sisters hate the idea of cheating and feel almost sorry for the cheaters.

Us grownups should have known better than to sit staring like we did.

But as for children . . . well. Grownups apologize to you.

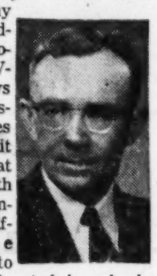
His Ignorance Was Not Bliss



It's an ill investigation that yields no positive result. An Atlantan who says "do not think of using my name or address" finds solace in the TV-quiz quiz. Says he, "If the investigation does nothing else, it has somewhat restored my faith in my own integrity and self-esteem." The man goes on to say he was educated in schools where the exams were not "fixed," he read newspapers, novels, magazines, history, the Bible, etc., with at least average zeal. He considered himself fairly well informed. But after watching "Twenty-One" and some of the others, he began to develop a feeling of inferiority and ignorance.

Now that the curtain has been lifted on some of the shows, the man has regained self-confidence. He feels much brighter than he did.

And I, for one, am so glad to hear Myrt Power say she ran the bases without any coaching from third base or the bench. Not that I ever suspected it of Myrt. But to have heard otherwise would have made me feel like the little boy at the Sox park in 1919. I would have said, "Say it ain't so, Myrt; say it ain't so!"

Johnson Confirms 'Available' Status

WASHINGTON—Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas has now made himself "available" and the field of maneuver for the 1960 Democratic presidential nomination now includes every possible fine shading of candidacy and hope. There is an outright candidate in Sen. Humphrey of Minnesota. Humphrey's hat has been flung into the ring by "friends."

There are two wholly obvious candidates who don't quite admit it yet, but almost do—Sen. Kennedy of Massachusetts and Symington of Missouri.

There is another "possibility," Stevenson, whose people are working for him while he himself says he is not interested.

And now in Sen. Johnson there is another and even more subtle instance of the indirect approach. Three weeks ago Johnson was saying he was not and would not be a "candidate." Now he repeats that he is not and won't be a "candidate." But he adds the important remark that if the Democratic convention chose him anyhow he could not and would not ignore its decision.

This change in the Johnson position, while significant, was always predictable. Every man who seeks the presidency, or allows himself to get into a position where it might seem to seek him, is a creature of the indispensable element of timing.

So, too, with Johnson. For many reasons he could not in the past have presented himself as an outright aspirant—and indeed even now he can never go quite that far. In the first place, he is the Democratic leader of the Senate and so he simply cannot afford to put his own ambitions ahead of his central responsibility to serve his party generally.

In the second place, the higher Johnson lifts his head the harder it will be hit by the Democratic National Committee group. The committee is supposed to be simply anti-Republican and not anti this or that Democrat. But in demonstrated fact its chairman, Paul Butler, is bitterly hostile to Johnson and will use the party machinery against him everywhere.

In the third place, Texas is at least historically a part of the South. Most of the national party organization and its followers are automatically against any Southerner.

All the same, Johnson has recognized that if he should much longer maintain a totally negative position toward the nomination he could have no chance at all. Every potential Johnson delegate to the convention would eventually have been driven elsewhere.

Thus, with infinite care not to stir up the anti-Johnsonites any more than was absolutely necessary, he has now moved this small but clear step forward toward entering the contest.

Blessed Promise Helps Ease Fears

I approach the writing of this column today with some hesitation. The subject about which I wish to write is not one in which we can easily make objective observations. It concerns a fact in human existence which we shun. It is a necessity we would like to by-pass as though it does not exist.

A reader asked me to offer some of my thoughts on the subject of death.

Why do we wish to avoid thinking of death? Is it not because no man is free from the pains of losing a loved one? There is no home that does not have an empty chair. There are few hearts without an unhealed ache.

It seems to me that a very pertinent question which each of us should ask ourselves is this: "How can I so live that I shall free myself from a fear of death?" Answers do not come easily and we ought to be suspicious of anyone who has a ready-made and pat answer. This is a question which even the saints have wrestled with.

For my correspondent and any others who may be interested, let me offer four suggestions. First, we who glory in birth — whether of small babies or of the season of spring — should recognize that there can be no birth without death. The world must continually renew itself or else everything will become stale and stagnant.

Second, we cannot live meaningful lives without some appreciation of the fact that most of us are given a short occupancy of these garments of flesh. We have but three score and ten years, give or take a few years either way. The fact of the transitory quality of life motivates most of us to wish to live fully, cheerfully and creatively while we are alive.

Third, we do not live alone and we do not die alone. "I am poor and needy, yet the Lord thinketh upon me" (Psalm 40:17). A young man, back from the jungle warfare in Guadalcanal, was asked by Army authorities how he thought young recruits could be best prepared for that kind of battle. The veteran responded, "Teach them the 23rd Psalm —'Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil, for thou art with me.'"

Fourth, it is the testimony and witness of our faith — authorized by the death and resurrection of our Lord — that the grave is not the end of life, but that beyond the grave we shall come into the nearer presence of God and of His Christ. I do not know how all this shall come about but I do know that Jesus promised that this will be so. I am willing to rest my life and death upon the integrity of His word.

Should Ike Protect Rival Supporters?

WASHINGTON—When Democratic senators at risk to themselves consistently support a Republican president in vital areas of foreign policy and elsewhere, should the President protect them at least from unfair Republican criticism at home? For some Democrats this is a very real question. It can't be dismissed out of hand.

I don't mean that Eisenhower could be expected to help elect Democrats over Republicans even though they may have supported him far more than some Republicans. This would just dilute still further our already over-diluted two-party system.

But bear in mind that we have now had three consecutive terms of divided government — Democratic Congress and Republican president—and that divided government has worked because of the unusual prestige of the President and the backing of Democrats who supported him on decisions of the greatest national interest.

To see how this worked out in practice let us look at the voting records of a group of Democratic senators during the past three Congresses. As reported by the "Congressional Quarterly," these Democratic senators backed President Eisenhower's foreign policies on roll call votes as follows:

Richard Neuberger, Ore., 85 per cent.

Carl Hayden, Ariz., 85 per cent.

Hubert Humphrey, Minn., 81 per cent.

Patrick McNamara, Mich., 81 per cent.

John O. Pastore, R. I., 80 per cent.

Compare this record with several representative Republican senators for the same period:

Leverett Staltonstall, Mass., 83 per cent.

Karl Mundt, S.D., 72 per cent.

Homer Capehart, Ind., 68 per cent.

Styles Bridges, N.H., 57 per cent.

Most Democratic senators need no presidential protection from unfair Republican criticism in their own states. But there are some who do. Take the case of Richard Neuberger of Oregon as illustrative of those Democrats who have backed Eisenhower on his most cherished foreign policy measures.

But today Sen. Neuberger is not only being harassed from the left by his Democratic colleague, Sen. Wayne Morse, as a "rubber stamp" violator of Democratic liberalism. He is simultaneously being raked from the right by the chairman of the Republican State Committee who tours Oregon urging the voters to unseat him on the ground that he is "the king of congressional spendthrifts."

The most costly items for which Neuberger voted were the President's requested military appropriations and foreign aid.

No Democratic senator can reasonably expect the President to help him get re-elected. But it is fair to ask—should Eisenhower take some steps to shield a Democratic senator, who has widely supported him, from over-simplified political brand-labels coming at him from Republican spokesmen?

2 U.S. Doctors Share Nobel Prize

Cited for Medical Research On Basic Life Chemicals

By CARL O. BOLANG

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—The 1959 Nobel Prize in medicine was awarded Thursday to two American scientists who have synthesized two basic chemicals of life in research on heredity.

Dr. Severo Ochoa, 54, of New York University's College of Medicine, and Dr. Arthur Kornberg, 41, of Stanford University, Stanford, Calif., will share $42,606 in cash.

In Stanford, Dr. Kornberg, Brooklyn-born, received the news with a cheerful "O.K." and said he planned to go to Stockholm in December to accept.

"It's one of those things—it shouldn't change anything," he said.

In New York, Dr. Ochoa, a naturalized American born in Luarca, Spain, smiled happily at congratulations of a host of colleagues, students and friends.

Sipping champagne from a paper cup, he said: "It is a very great honor, something very good to happen to a scientist."

Physicians who chose to work in biochemistry, the two created the nucleic acids DNA and RNA. Nucleic aids derive their name from the cell nucleus, the basic component of living things.

DNA is the sientific nickname for DesoxyriboNucleic Acid, a substance which holds the secrets of such inherited characteristis as race, height, the color of eyes. Dr. Kornberg has specialized in this field.

RNA stands for RiboNucleic Acid, which takes part in the production of proteins. That has claimed the attention of Dr. Ochoa.

Their experiments have helped to clarify the workings of heredity. It may in the future become possible to alter the heredity of human beings, animals, plants. This could mean longer life, freedom from presently inherited diseases, perhaps control over cancer.

The two Americans were selected by the Swedish Royal Caroline Institute of Medicine and Physiology for the professional and monetary honors awarded since 1901 under the will of Alfred Nobel, the Swedish inventor of dynamite.

The citation announced the prize was for the discoveries by Dr. Ochoa and Dr. Kornberg "of the mechanisms in the biological synthesis of RiboNucleic Acid and DesoxyriboNucleic Acid."

The prize is going to the United States for the second year in a row. The medical award was won in 1958 by Dr. Joshua Lederger of the University of Wisconsin, Dr. George Beadle of the California Institute of Technology at Pasadena, and Dr. Edward L. Tatum of Rockefeller Institute, New York, for their work in genetics.

Prizes also are given for chemistry, physics, literature and promotion of peace. They will be announced later this fall. The winners receive their prizes at Stockholm ceremonies in early December.

Rockefeller To Invade Nixon Stronghold Soon

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Gov. Rockefeller, looking more and more like a candidate for the Republican nomination for president, will make a thrust next month into the home state of Vice President Nixon.

Rockefeller's surprise announcement that he plans to visit three politically strategic points on the West Coast next month strengthened belief that he would contest Nixon for the party's nomination.

The visit to Nixon's home ground in California will provide an opportunity to counter efforts in New York State in support of Nixon.

Lending further political aura to the trip was Rockefeller's statement that, in his speeches, he would discuss national and international issues.

He insists that his basic stand is unchanged—that he has not decided whether he will run.

The governor will visit Los Angeles Nov. 12 and address a meeting of the World Affairs Council. In San Francisco the next day, he will address the Press and Union League. On Nov. 14, he will speak at Willamette University in Salem, Ore.

Rockefeller said that in addition to making speeches he expected to meet with GOP leaders.

A Happy and Tired Ingrid Gets Back Her 3 Children

ROME (UPI)—Ingrid Bergman finally got back her three children from Roberto Rossellini Thursday after the Italian producer had kept them hidden up to the last minute.

"I am happy but very, very tired," Miss Bergman said.

Rossellini had fought Miss Bergman in the courts to keep the children here but he lost, at least temporarily. He finally agreed to turn them over to her Thursday.

He personally handed over the children—twins Isotta and Isabella, 6, and Robertino, 9.

LONDON—Paul Getty, reputed to be the richest man in the United States, is negotiating to buy Sutton Place, the Duke of Sutherland's stately castle in Guildford. Getty, 66, said it would be cheaper than living in hotels.

Although King Saud of Saudi Arabia is thought to be the richest man in the world, Getty's personal fortune can be considered adequate. It was estimated two years ago by Fortune Magazine to be something under a billion dollars.

Getty, who has vast holdings in oil and real estate, modestly acknowledged some doubt then about the size of his fortune, but thought the total was probably more than a billion.

He suggested Wednesday night that he was buying a place near London. Agents for the estate confirmed the transaction Thursday, but said that the negotiations are not complete. They did not disclose the price being discussed. A year ago, however, the Duke was asking about 400,000 pounds ($1,200,000).

"The reason for buying a home in England," Getty had said, "is simply to get out of hotels." He has been staying in a suite at the Ritz Hotel here.

"I generally have a group of business associates with me," he explained, "and I have worked out that our combined hotel bills will be more than is required to run a stately home. Hotels cost a fantastic sum, with nothing to show for it."

Roads' Role In Political Arena Vital

Vandiver's appointment to the board.

He is frequently mentioned as a potential candidate for lieutenant governor. Sources close to him say he wants to make the race, but hasn't made up his mind.

He is making a lot of appearances before civic club audiences and generally gets a warm reception. Jordan is the main speaker for the Highway Board because Chairman Jim Gillis and member Willis Harden want it that way, neither of them being noted as orators.

The effect of his membership on the board is an unknown factor in Jordan's political career. It is understandable how membership on the board could generate political popularity in periods when a lot of roads are being built. But this is a period of austerity. Roads are not being built in abundance and county contracts for roadwork are not being handed out at all because of tight money.

But Jordan and his fellow board members are going along with Gov. Vandiver's economy program, saving money and, probably later in the administration, will be in a better financial position. Whether Jordan will profit politically by his board membership remains to be tested.

FRIEND OF TALMADGE

Jordan is one of the no-longer-rare "anti-Talmadge Talmadge men". There are many such men in Georgia politics today because of the gradual disappearance of the traditional line that once divided the state's political camps into Talmadge and anti-Talmadge forces.

In the old days, Jordan was an anti-Talmadge man. He broke with Gene Talmadge to throw his political weight behind Ellis Arnall in the gubernatorial campaign of 1942.

He was not overly active in the 1948 governor's race when Herman Talmadge wrested the governorship from M. E. Thompson. But he voted for Thompson.

In the early 1950s, Jordan became more and more impressed with the program Gov. Herman Talmadge was pushing. He got behind the Talmadge program and became one of Herman's strongest backers in the legislature. He and Talmadge have been friends since.

TROTTER A POTENTIAL

Another former legislator and a current office holder in the Vandiver administration who is frequently mentioned for the lieutenant governor's race is William P. Trotter. Trotter is also interested in highways, but from a totally different viewpoint.

The 40-year-old Troup County attorney resigned his seat in the House to become Vandiver's director of the Department of Public Safety. As such he is head of the State Patrol.

As head of the state-wide law enforcement agency, he could be in a strong position to run for office, although he contends that the job he holds is not one that wins votes.

"You come into contact with a lot of people, but they don't usually want to vote for you after the kind of contact we have," he commented.

But Trotter continues to be talked up in some quarters.

Sources close to him say he may be more interested in representing the Fourth District of Georgia in the U.S. Congress than in being lieutenant governor. Rep. Jack Flynt defeated Trotter for that post, and it is not likely that Trotter would oppose Flynt again.

There is considerable speculation, however, that Flynt may want to return to Georgia to run for governor. In that event, Trotter might well offer for Congress.

The race for lieutenant governor in 1962 promises to be a wide-open, scrapping affair. All the aspirants for that office may not necessarily be in the Talmadge camp.

With Marvin Griffin—a former anti-Talmadge man who became a Talmadge man and is now an anti-Talmadge man again—considering the gubernatorial election, it may be assumed that there will be those of his following who would run for the number two job.

Mentioned in this connection is John Sheffield of Quitman. Although a young man—he is 34—Johnny Sheffield is a veteran of 12 years in the House. His family was anti-Talmadge, but when Herman became governor, young Sheffield switched his allegiance to him.

When Herman let it be known in the 1954 campaign that he favored Griffin for the governorship, Sheffield was also a Griffin booster. He has been in Griffin's corner since.

Although he says he has not discussed the matter with Griffin, sources close to Sheffield say he would like very much to be the former governor's running mate" if Griffin seeks a comeback.

Supreme Court Airs Ownership Of Oil in Gulf

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A seven-member Supreme Court panel Thursday took under advisement the question of whether five coastal states of the federal government owns the oil-rich land beyond the three mile limit in the Gulf of Mexico.

To prepare for a decision, the justices have participated in what seemed like a four-day seminar in American history, with each side giving a different meaning to events that shaped the nation.

The concluding arguments were made by Sen. Holland (D-Fla), who represented his state, and by Attorney George S. Swarth on behalf of the federal government.

U.S. Trade Policies Lauded by Briton

America's broadly liberal policy of trade with moderate duties has been largely responsible for the fact that Western Europe is more prosperous than ever before, a British economist said here Thursday.

Arthur A. Shenfield, economic director of the Federation of British Industries, spoke to the Atlanta Junior Chamber of Commerce at its regular meeting at the Dinkler Plaza Hotel.

MORE PROSPEROUS

Europe's "comeback since World War II with such a wonderful rebound is due to U.S. aid for one thing," Shenfield said. "Another vital factor is the belief in the virtue and power of free enterprise. Western Germany is probably the best example of this, but Europe as a whole is more prosperous than ever before."

The British economist said he believed that trade is an instrument of power and defense as well as an instrument of economic welfare of nations. Shenfield said he saw no cause for worry in the present "outflow of gold from the U.S. The positive margin is still some $3 billion a year. Gold reserves are just being put to use."

ON A SHOESTRING

Shenfield told how Britain acted as a banker "on a shoestring, although the shoestring is twice as thick as it was a few years ago." He attributed the doubling in thickness to the wisdom of McMillan's Conservative government.

Shenfield warned of the economic risks in direct aids and loans to under-developed countries. "There is a waste in funds which are channeled direct to governments," he said. "I believe the best policy is to stimulate beneficient trade and private investment."

The economist likened such types of aids as "small lumps of capital where there is room for both success and failure without disaster to the whole program."

TRADE WITH RUSSIA

Speaking of trade with Rusia, he said that the Russian of today is "living in a prison which must be opened up, and trade is the best manner of opening up the cast iron border. Trade will bring many Russians to the free countries, even though the Communist government will not allow free tourist travel by their people."

Shenfield said he could foresee economic dangers if the 200 million people in Russia—under a Communist regime—were financially and politically able to trade on an open world market. "Their ideas of a controlled economy and our idea of free world trade would be in conflict," he said. "However, trade with Russia could triple without there being any danger whatsoever."

Road Work Halted Again for U.S. Fund

$6 Million Lettings Cancelled By Shortage of Federal Aid

Shortage and uncertainty of federal funds have forced the Highway department for the second time this year to cancel proposed contract lettings.

Highway Board Chairman Jim L. Gillis said some $6 million to $7 million in projects would be affected.

Chairman Gillis

He said that rules imposed by the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads leave the state with only about $1 million for November.

"This amount was not sufficient to warrant a contract letting," Gillis declared.

Though the final November bid list had not been approved, it was expected to have included three interstate projects: 7.4 miles in Catoosa County, 10.8 miles in Crisp and 6.1 miles in Lowndes.

It was the second time this year the department has had to postpone new federal aid work.

The department resumed accepting bids on federal-aid projects in October after the Congress enacted a new cent-a-gallon gasoline tax.

But the fiscal problems are still not worked out.

Gillis said the bureau has decreed that even though Georgia has been alloted $80 million for the 1959-60 fiscal year, it can have only one-third or that amount before the end of December.

That means that only $8.5 million will be available for federal-aid work for the rest of this calendar year.

In addition, the chairman said, contractors are finishing up current jobs at the rate of $4 million or $5 million a week, and the state has no idea what part of its share the federal government will reimburse, or with what speed.

He said the state could get into serious lawsuits brought by contractors if the Bureau of Public Roads does not reimburse the state promptly.

"I've been in and out of the Highway Department for 20 years, and this is the first time I've ever run into a thing like this," Gillis declared.

The bureau's method of passing funds prompted the recently concluded Southern Governors Conference to appeal directly to the president to put an end to the confusion.

The governors asked Pres. Eisenhower to assure the states that they would be able to draw the full amounts of funds alloted to them at the beginning of the fiscal year.

Gillis said Highway Boardmen Robert Jordan and Willis Harden are attending the American Association of State Highway Officials in Boston, Mass., at present and are trying to work out a more suitable agreement with federal officials.

Lutherans Pick Otegen

J. H. Otegen, Atlanta Lutheran lay leader, was elected first vice president of the United Lutheran Churchmen of America at the organization's 22nd biennial convention in South Bend, Ind., this week.

Aubrey Mauney, Kings Mountain, N.C., was elected president of the organization. Other new officers are J. Russell Barley, Beaver, Pa., second vice president and Dr. Earl Freese, Rochester, N.Y., third vice president.

Frank Loesser's 'Happy Fellow' Opens Tonight

"The Most Happy Fellow," hit Broadway musical by Frank Loesser, opens a two-performance stand at the Tower Theater Friday night at 8:30.

Originally, the show was scheduled to play only one performance, but another performance—Sunday afternoon at 3:30 was added.

Star of the show is Richard Wentworth, who once lived in Atlanta as Richard Holtzclaw. He returned here this summer to play Santa Claus in "Babes in Toyland" at Theater Under the Stars.

"The Most Happy Fellow" features 35 tunes, done by full vocal ensemble and soloists. Accompaniment is in the form of two pianos—the same arrangement used in last year's performance of Leonard Bernstein's "Candide."

Janitor Acquitted In Slaying

By CORNELIUS F. HURLEY

CHELSEA, Vt. (AP)—Robert O. Welch, 46, a country school janitor, won acquittal Thursday by directed verdict on a charge he murdered Orville A. Gibson, a prosperous farmer, as the outcome of vigilante action.

The state dropped its case against Frank W. Carpenter, 43, indicted with Welch.

Superior Court Judge Natt L. Divoll Jr. told a jury of eight men and four women the crime had not been connected with Welch in the state's evidence. Defense counsel Henry Black asked for the directed verdict without presenting any evidence or testimony.

WAS SPECTATOR

Carpenter, who was to have been tried at a later date, was a spectator at Welch's trial. Testimony began on Monday in a clean, white century-old courthouse in a valley which marks this rural town.

Gibson's trussed body was found in the Connecticut River three months after he vanished Dec. 31, 1937.

The previous Christmas Day he had beaten his frail, hired hand, Eri Martin, 59, for spilling two cans of milk in Gibson's dairy barn in the hamlet of Newbury.

Community feeling built up, and there was talk of tar and feathers and giving Gibson a "dose of his own medicine," testimony revealed.

SEEN IN CAR

Key prosecution testimony was that Welch and Carpenter were seen in an automobile near the Gibson place the morning he disappeared.

Another state exhibit was a piece of rope with which Gibson had been tied. Witnesses said Welch admitted the rope was his.

Atty. Gen. Frederick M. Reed said he might not have proc ded with the Welch prosecution if he had been free to decide the question himself but that he had no choice.

When the foreman rose to announce the directed verdict, Welch stood up and listened. The crowd of 75 spectators, mostly women, sat in silence. They had driven 40 miles from Newbury each day to listen to the testimony.

Barksdale Air Force Base, La., and the Stategic Air Command at Omaha, Neb., where the statement on the nuclear weapon was issued. Ft. Knox also sent a rescue team.

The flaming explosion was seen as far from the site as Cincinnati, Ohio, Louisville and southern Indiana residents saw it also.

It said the accident was the first of its kind since SAC began its round-the-clock refueling program nine years ago.

The two planes were based at Columbus Air Force Base, Columbus, Miss.

Columbis Air Force Base said names of casualties would not be released until more accurate information was available.

Dr. Anderson Urges 'DEW Line' To Warn of Diseases

A "DEW line" for infectious diseases—has been proposed by the head of the U.S. Communicable Disease Center here.

Dr. Robert J. Anderson was speaking to some 110 members of a symposium of the Medical Education for National Defense program, who are touring public health installations studying preventive medicine and health mobilization.

The group represents 54 medical schools and other organizations interested in medical education.

The "DEW line" analogy was drawn by Dr. Anderson from the Defense Early Warning radar system to protect against enemy attack.

"The best Disease Early Warning system is the ability of the individual physician to quickly recognize cases of infectious disease," Dr. Anderson said. "Through the CDC, we are developing quicker diagnositic methods."

Dr. Anderson also outlined the epidemic and disaster aid which the CDC is carrying out. He said that mosquito control in the wake of hurricane Gracie had become a major problem. The CDC is furnishing help to the coastal areas.

Other aid is being given to the area hit by encephalitis in New Jersey.

NO TRAFFIC DEATHS

Of Georgia's 159 counties, 12 reported no traffic fatalities during 1958. This is an amazing record. What did these 12 counties do differently from the other 147 to keep death from the streets and highways? What kind of laws were enforced? What did police and other officials do to impress upon citizens the need for careful driving? Raleigh Bryans, Journal staff writer, goes after the answers. He talks with law officers in these safe-for-driving counties and takes a look at the counties' driving records for 1959.

TEXTILE LEADER

Co. Elliott W. Springs

Textile Man Springs Is Dead at 63

(Copyright 1959, The New York Times Co.)

NEW YORK — Elliott White Springs, 63, of Fort Mill, S.C., head of one of the largest cotton textile companies in the United States, died here at Memorial Hospital of cancer of the pancreas.

Springs, author and an outstanding flier in World War I, was president of the Springs Cotton Mills of Lancaster, S.C., and Springs Mills, Inc.

He also headed a number of other business organizations, including the Bank of Lancaster, the Kanawha Insurance Co., both of Lancaster, S.C., and the 29-mile Lancaster and Chester railroad, which hauled his cloth from his mills.

LOVED FUN

Once described as "the world's champion fun-loving businessman," Springs had a gift for stirring controversy with his lusty, if not risque, advertising of Spring Maid fabrics. These ads, which featured leggy, scantily clad girls, sometimes startled readers and brought down censorship from various publications.

Some years ago, Springs perpetrated a characteristic joke on his customers. He sent out a Christmas card purporting to show scenes around his plant. In one of the scenes a barefoot boy stood by a loom, while in another there was an unkempt woman, also barefoot.

After many protests arrived denouncin ghis use of "child labor," Springs happily disclosed that the barefoot child was his own and the unkempt woman was his wife.

PRINCETON GRAD

A native of Lancaster, Springs graduated from Princeton University in 1917. He trained as a pursuit flier with Britain's Royal Flying Corps at Oxford. He was officially credited with having destroyed 11 enemy planes and was listed as America's No. 3 ace. He retired with the rank of lieutenant colonel in 1942.

After the war Springs became a test pilot and barnstormer, but when his plane caught fire and crashed in the first United States cross-country race he decided upon a career in his father's textile mills.

Mrs. Hodges Seeks $45,000 for Bond

By RICHARD ASHWORTH

Mrs. Margaret Hodges faced the task Thursday of raising a $45,000 bond, rather than one of $25,000, to get out of Fulton County jail. She is appealing a six-year lottery sentence handed down Wednesday.

Judge Charles G. Bruce of Fulton Criminal Court said Thursday he imposed the $25,000 bond immediately after her conviction by a jury of six counts of lottery. He said he did not realize she was under a $42,000 bond when she went to trial.

When he realized he had "overlooked" this, Judge Bruce said, he increased the amount of her bond to $45,000. Mrs. Hodges' attorney, James R. Venable and his partner, Essley B. Burdine, saw Judge Bruce Thursday and asked him to cut the bond.

"They tried to get me to reduce it and I wouldn't do it," the judge said.

Mrs. Hodges late Thursday had been unable to make the bond and remained in Fulton Tower.

If she is able to post the bond, it will mean she is under a total of $106,500 in appearance and appeal bonds, most of them for lottery.

Asst. Sol. Hinson McAuliffe, who successfully prosecuted her Thursday, said she will be tried on two charges of contributing to the delinquency of her minor sons, Paul and Jackie, "as soon as we can put them on the calendar."

Mrs. Hodges is free on bonds totaling $7,500 on those charges. They stem from her arrest Aug. 4 for operating a lottery. The jury Wednesday convicted her of operating a lottery July 27-31 and Aug. 4.

Her two sons are also charged with lottery, Paul with six counts and Jackie with one count. Paul as free on $6,000 bond and Jackie on $1,000. McAuliffe said their trials also would be rescheduled as soon as possible.

Mrs. Hodges is also under a $25,000 bond on an Oct. 16, 1958, lottery conviction, which was recently affirmed by the State Court of Appeals and is now being appealed, and a $1,000 bond on two traffic convictions which also were upheld.

Other bonds she is under are: $25,000 on two lottery counts which were among five counts on which she was convicted, and three counts of which were later set aside as invalid, and $3,000 for assault with intent to murder, awaiting re-trial in Superior Court.

PRESS WEEK

Elks Honor Newsmen at Dinner Here

Members of the staffs of The Atlanta Constitution and The Atlanta Journal were honored Thursday night by Atlanta Lodge No. 78, Benevolent & Protective Order of Elks, at a dinner meeting at the Elks home, 736 Peachtree Street, NE.

Following an introduction by Morris Manheim Jr., exalted ruler, the newsmen were welcomed by Judge John S. McClelland, former judge of Fulton County Criminal Court and a past Grand Exalted Ruler of Elks.

The following resolution was adopted by the Elks:

"Whereas, the week of Oct. 15 through Oct. 21 has been proclaimed 'National Newspaper Week'; and

"Whereas, a vital part of our nation's heritage is freedom of the press and today is more important than ever before; and

"Whereas, at this time the BPOE and its 1,250,000 members join the nation in paying tribute to the free press and join in saluting the newspapers for their part in guarding our liberty; and

"Whereas, Atlanta Newspapers, Inc., publishers of The Atlanta Constitution and The Atlanta Journal, has and does endorse, preserve and protect the high ideal of truth and the rights of the people of this community and State through its news columns and editorials;

"Now, therefore, be it resolved by Atlanta Lodge No. 78, BPOE, on the 15th day of Oct., 1959, that we, individually and collectively, do hereby express to Atlanta Newspapers, Inc., its officers and employes our sincere thanks for the service it has rendered to the citizens of the City of Atlanta and the State of Georgia for its contributions to the preservation of one of our basic freedoms, that of having a free press and speaking for the people at all times in exposing tyranny, oppression, and corruption."

The resolution was certified by Tom M. Brisendine, secretary of Lodge 78.

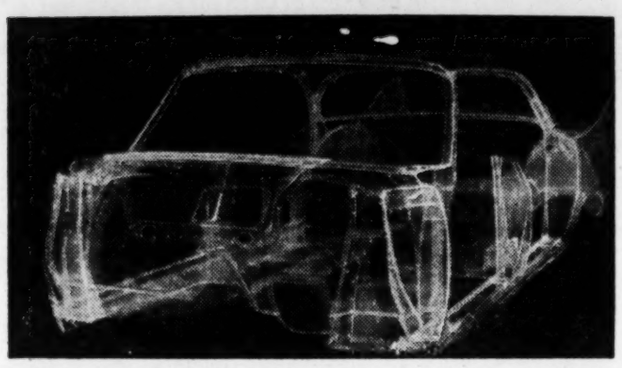
ANNOUNCING THE NEW PLYMOUTH!

SOLID FOR '60! AT YOUR DEALER'S NOW!

BUILT A NEW SOLID WAY TO GIVE YOU SOLID SATISFACTION

CHRYSLER ENGINEERING INTRODUCES A NEW KIND OF PLYMOUTH THAT MARKS A MAJOR BREAKTHROUGH IN CAR DESIGN. BODY AND FRAME UNIT ARE WELDED TOGETHER AS ONE, IN A NEW WAY. MANY PARTS THAT WORK LOOSE, RATTLE AND NEED FIXING IN ORDINARY CARS ARE ELIMINATED. THIS LOW-PRICE '60 PLYMOUTH IS STRONGER AND ROOMIER. IT USES LESS GAS THAN BEFORE. IT RIDES MORE COMFORTABLY, WE BELIEVE, THAN ANY OTHER CAR IN ITS CLASS.



PLYMOUTH'S NEW DURA-QUIET UNIBODY is a rigidly-formed structure, locked by approximately 5400 precise welds. It has no conventional body bolts, braces, struts or stays to give trouble. The Plymouth engine is housed in its own separate insulated welded unit. Road noises and road shocks are dampened. Even the sound of the wind is hushed.

We doubt if any car at any price has ever ridden quite so well as this low-price automobile, and only a fine sports car can equal the sureness, steadiness and ease of its handling. Practical Stabilizer Design, incorporating rear stabilizer fins, adds stability on the road, cuts down wind resistance and gives you measurably better gas mileage.

The new Solid Plymouth is a young, exciting car with ten full years of Chrysler Corporation development behind it. It will suit you particularly if you want a feeling of quality and a sense of craftsmanship in the car you drive. It is built carefully and precisely. We believe there is no other car in the low-price field that resembles the Solid Plymouth for 1960.

When you drive this new kind of Plymouth, you may find it hard to believe that a car so roomy, so comfortable and so quiet is actually in the low-price field. But it is.

AN ALL-NEW INCLINED OVERHEAD-VALVE "6" IS AMONG FIVE PLYMOUTH ENGINE OPTIONS FOR 1960. The first inclined engine ever in an American passenger car is the new Plymouth 30-D Economy Six, most powerful "6" in America. Very economical, it is inclined to make servicing simpler, to lower the car's center of gravity and to make handling and riding easier. Also for 1960: the limited-production *SonoRamic Commando V-8 that uses supersonic vibrations to generate its own supercharged effect. Fury V-800, three-time Mobilgas Economy Run winner in its class, now more economical than ever. *Fury V-800 with SuperPak, great 260-HP performer. And *Golden Commando 395, most advanced of conventional V-8s.

SOLID PLYMOUTH 1960 OFFERS EXTRA FEATURES NO OTHER CAR IN ITS CLASS CAN OFFER. Among them: Custom-Positioned Front Seat adjusts six ways—no extra cost. A power version is optional. *Safe-T-Matic doorlocking system locks all doors automatically the instant you start the engine. Children cannot unlock them without your say-so. Rectangular *Aero Wheel for power steering is easier to handle, easier to see over. A new RCA "45" Record Player automatically plays 14 of your standard 45-RPM records as you ride along. Many, many more unique features make the Solid Plymouth for 1960 a whirlwind of new ideas. Optional at extra cost

Anjette the Third in Georgia To Escape Chair as Insane

Anjette Lyles is the third person to escape capital punishment in Georgia by being declared insane, according to records of the Pardons and Parole Board.

The first was Elijah Gibson, convicted of a Pulaski County murder, sentenced to die and committed to Milledgeville by former Gov. Herman Talmadge in May, 1954.

The other was Frank Mosley, convicted of murder in Camden County, and committed last year by former Gov. Marvin Griffin.

Iranian in Paris

PARIS (UPI)—Iranian Premier Manoutcher Eghbal arrived here Thursday for an eight-day visit as guest of the French government.

Anjette Spared from Chair And Ordered to Milledgeville said she will be transferred to Milledgeville as soon as he receives the governor's committment order.

At the state hospital, Mrs. Lyles will undergo the same treatment as any other patient, Dr. Irville H. McKinnon, superintendent, said.

She won't be confined in a cell, Dr. Mc Kinnon said, but she'll be closely watched.

"We will try to restore her to normalcy," he added.

The governor, in August, granted her a reprieve from her death sentence to allow the State Board of Pardons and Paroles time to study a plea from her attorneys that the sentence be commuted to life imprisonment.

The board last month, without ruling on the question of commutation, asked Vandiver to appoint a sanity commission after the question of her mental condition arose at a board hearing.

Vandiver named Dr. William Rottersman of Atlanta and Dr. Bernard Holland of Decatur, both psychiatrists, and Dr. R. W. Bradford, assistant superintendent of the Milledgeville hospital, to the commission.

They met in a closed-door session in Atlanta Wednesday night to review their examination on Mrs. Lyles study psychological tests and to prepare their report to the governor.

The governor announced their finding at a tense news conference Thursday morning.

He gave copies of the doctors' report to newsmen.

It read:

"We, the undersigned members of the Sanity Commission have examined into the sanity of Mrs. Anjette Donovan Lyles. On the basis of a study of all available records; interviews of a number of persons, including Mrs. Anjette Donovan Lyles; psychological tests, laboratory examinations and physical examinations; we find Mrs. Anjette Donovan Lyles to be psychotic and insane. The type of her mental illness is chronic paranoid schizophrenia.

"It is our opinion that Mrs. Anjette Donovan Lyles from her early years has felt unloved and unwanted by her parents. During her formative and school years, Mrs. Lyles felt unaccepted by her schoolmates. In later years despite her apparent social adjustment, she was unable to feel close to and accepted by other people.

"Since paranoid schizophrenia usually has a gradual onset, as was apparently true with Mrs. Lyles, it is difficult to determine the exact time at which she became obviously psychotic.

"At the time of the examination by the undersigned, Mrs. Anjette Donovan Lyles was suspicious and hostile toward people. She gave evidence of believing that she was persecuted by her mother and numerous other real as well as imaginary persons. Regardless of the nature of her acts, she believes she has done no wrong.

"Super-imposed on her mental illness of paranoid schizophrenia there are symptoms related to the stress of her imprisonment and her death sentence.

"This purposeful and dramatic behavior to a certain extent, is a manifestation of a desire to escape from her impending execution. This behavior is illustrated by her approximate answers on psychological testing and by her childish hallucinations."

Vandiver also read the Code Section under which he ordered Mrs. Lyles transferred from a Bibb County jail cell to the Milledgeville hospital:

"When any person shall, after conviction of a capital crime, become insane, and shall be so declared in accordance with the provisions of the preceding section, the convict shall be received into the Milledgeville State Hospital, there to be safely kept and treated as other adjudged insane persons. . ."

"I construe this Code Section to make it mandatory on me that I order her committed to the Milledgeville State Hospital," he said.

Anjette Calls Fate The Lesser Evil

"I still say I am not guilty," the prisoner declared. "If I am mentally sick, I want to be treated because I don't want to be a raving maniac, not knowing daylight from darkness. Don't any of us know what the future holds and it could hold some brightness."

IN BLUE HOUSECOAT

Mrs. Lyles talked to a reporter and photographer in the office of jailer Ollie Goings. She was wearing a dark blue outing housecoat and light blue bedroom slippers. Her silver grey hair was pulled back severely from her face into a pony-tail and she returned to her cell to smoothe her hair and renew her lipstick before posing for photographs. She appeared to have lost weight since her sojourn in the death cell in Reidsville in August and she attributed it to a recent kidney upset and to a week-long series of severe headaches.

"I have slept all week with an ice-pack on my head," she said. "I didn't sleep last night because I knew today was the day and it was heavy on my mind."

"TELLING THE TRUTH"

Jailer Goings said he expected to deliver Mrs. Lyles to Milledgeville State Hospital Friday. Her mother, Mrs. Jetta Donovan, named by Anjette as the real slayer of Marcia, was one of several relatives who called on her Tuesday afternoon.

Asked if she still considers her mother guilty of her daughter's death, Anjette said evasively, "I've been telling the truth all along and what I said was true, is still true."

She said her mother apparently held no animosity because of the charge she made against her. The prosecution attorney's charge that she was an actress of Academy Award winning quality in her performance for psychiatrists brought a wide smile to Anjette's face.

"I didn't act," she said. "I haven't acted any part of it. I sat right there in that chair and talked to those doctors just like I'd talk to anybody else. I answered their questions as best I could."

Anjette said the three physicians, whose diagnosis saved her from the electric chair, spent two and a half hours with her.

Special prosecutor Charles F. Adams said Thursday, "It appears that another Georgian is entitled to receive the Academy Award as the best actress of 1959."

Anjette's lawyers issued the following brief statement:

"We realized some time back that we were dealing with an unusual personality. Anjette's psychotic condition became more and more apparent with the passage of time. During the summer of this year her condition became so obvious that we undertook to have further psychiatric examinations. As a result of these examinations we were confident that the governor's commission would find Anjette Lyles to be insane."

Gen. Harrison's Illness Still Undiagnosed

The Fort McPherson Hospital reported Thursday the nature of the illness of Gen. William K. Harrison, 64, U.S. Army (Ret). has still not been determined.

An Army spokesman said the general "rested comfortably" Thursday. The spokesman said results of clinical tests would not be known before Friday. He was admitted to the hospital Tuesday.

The spokesman said the tests were being made "to try to find a possible internal disorder of some kind."

Harrison, a recognized authority on the Bible, was the official United Nations representative in the Panmumjom truce negotiations at the end of the Korean War.

Texas has 555 hospitals, more than any other state.

Billy Graham

Why I Don't Speak Out on Cigarets

QUESTION: Why do some Christians speak out against such habits as smoking, et cetera, and you seem to say little or nothing about them? Isn't it time to make known the evils of such practices?—M. M.

ANSWER: The medical profession has done an excellent job in alerting the American public to the dangers of smoking. A multitude of magazine articles and medical reports have established the relationship of the habit with the occurrence of lung cancer. But God did not call me to militate against any particular vice, but to proclaim Christ. If I were to begin championing causes of one sort or another, it would be difficult to know which particular cause is most worthy.

There is a good reason why so many Christians do speak out against the use of tobacco. The Bible teaches that when a man is converted to Christ and receives pardon for his sin that Christ enters into his heart to dwell. In this sense Christianity is much more than theory or religion. It is a relatedness to Christ. Having come to dwell, we are then to regard the human body as sacred. "Your body is a temple of the Holy Spirit which is in you, which ye have from God, and ye are not your own. For ye were bought with a price; glorify God therefore in your body."

This verse applies to many things: over-eating or wrong use of sex. Anything harmful to the body is not glorifying God. .

A GIRL AT HIS SIDE

Errol Went Out The Way He Lived

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP)—Hard-living, hard-loving Errol Flynn died as he lived—gay, convival and in the company of a beautiful young girl.

A heart attack took his life Wednesday night at the age of 50.

Just before he died he confided to a doctor that he had suffered two previous heart seizures — something he had kept secret from his closest friends. He did not say where or when they occurred.

But it made no difference to the aging matinee idol. He had continued to live life to the full, pursuing his two admitted hobbies, women and liquor.

ALMOST LEGENDARY

His death ended an almost legendary career which spanned piracy in the South Seas, swashbuckling movie fame, scandal, marital adventures and a small-scale role in the Cuban revolution.

Thrice-wed, Flynn was here with his shapely, blonde, 17-year-old girl friend, Beverly Aadland, on a combination business and pleasure trip. He had flown from Hollywood six days ago principally to arrange the sale of his beloved $100,000 yacht "Zaca."

Miss Aadland, who was with Flynn when he died in a penthouse apartment during a small farewell party, was prostrate Thursday and under heavy sedation.

'HE'S ALIVE,' GIRL SAYS

Those close to her said she refused to believe Flynn was dead. A Vancouver newspaper columnist who encountered her wandering in the fog Wednesday night near the home where she and Flynn had been staying quoted her as saying: "He's alive. They've taken him to the hospital, but he's all right. He'll be home again in the morning."

Mrs. George Caldough, hostess to Flynn and his protege, said Miss Aadland had gone out for air to try to throw off the numbing effects of the sedatives. She, too, said the young woman still clung to the belief Flynn was not dead.

The cold, factual autopsy report was issued at midday. The coroner's office said Flynn suffered a coronary thrombosis—blood clot in the heart—and also had "a fatty degeneration of the liver."

Flynn's secretary, Ronnie Shadlo, who flew here Thursday from Los Angeles, said the actor will be buried in land he loved—on his ranch in Jamaica.

Shadlo said Hollywood funeral arrangements will not be completed until word is received from Flynn's estranged wife, Pat Wymore, and his attorney in New York. Miss Wymore flew to Los Angeles Wednesday night from Washington, D.C., where she had a night club engagement.

Flynn and Miss Aadland were on their way to the airport for a return flight to Hollywood when they stopped off with the Caldoughs and other friends for a drink at the swank apartment of Dr. Grant Gould.

For two hours Flynn kept them spellbound with stories of movie greats—imitating them, acting out incidents as he was relating and displaying the same charm which fascinated men and women alike for more than two decades.

Suddenly he stopped, looked around and smiled. Bowing to Mrs. Caldough, he said, "I think I might lie down." Then he stepped toward the bedroom.

He turned as he reached the door and said smilingly: "But I shall return."

Explorer VII Flattens Its Orbit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The newest U.S. satellite, Explorer VII, apparently is settling into a somewhat flatter than expected orbit but this will not seriously impair its scientific value, scientists said Thursday.

When the 91.5-pound man-made moon was launched at Camp Canaveral, Fla., on Tuesday, scientists estimated that its course would take it 700 miles away from earth at its farthest point and 340 miles at the closest.

After its first complete circuit of the earth, however, tracking stations reported that Explorer VII was going out only 664 miles and approaching no nearer than 346 miles to earth.

This initial report heartened scientists. They had feared some of the instruments aboard the satellite might be ruined by radiations from the so-called Van Allen belts if Explorer VII ventured too far into space. Later tracking figures put the maximum and minimum altitudes at 701.9 and 316.6 miles respectively.

Airlines Expected to Cut Fares

TOKYO (UPI) — Delegates to the International Air Transport Assn. meeting here predicted Thursday that plane fares would be cut by next spring if not before.

Delegates told this correspondent that a rebate system used by some airlines to give under-the-table fare cuts was providing the impetus for cutting prices openly.

Many of the major airlines have been pressing for permission to reduce fares because of the savings gained by operating big jets on their routes.

But the practice of offering as much as half-off tickets to some buyers will force the associations to take some action, according to these delegates. Large companies that use airlines frequently to send their employes around the world now can shop around for the best rebates, they added.

POLICE CHIEF SIGNS POLICE DOG CONTRACT
Herbert Jenkins; Ray Disheroon, Left; Manfred Stein

Police Chief Herbert Jenkins said he would discuss provisions of the contract with City Comptroller Earl Landers Friday and ask for a $2,000 appropriation, subject to approval by the finance committee and aldermanic board.

The $2,000 is needed to launch the training program and maintain it until Jan. 1, Jenkins said.

If the money is approved, two dog trainers — Ray Disheroon, 224A Wesley Chapel Rd., Marietta, and Manfred Stein, Rte. 1, Dunwoody — will begin training six dogs immediately.

EXPECTS DONATIONS

No appropriation is being asked to purchase dogs. The chief said he felt that dog owners in Atlanta would donate the animals for such a cause.

What the department needs, Jenkins said, is thoroughbred German Shepherd males, one to two years old.

Anyone wishing to contribute a dog should contact Disheroon or Stein directly, the chief said. He added that both men have agreed to inspect any dogs offered until they find six suitable for police work.

Disheroon and Stein said an average of one out of each 10 thoroughbred dogs is acceptable. They explained dog owners have attempted to breed for characteristics such as obeying only one master and aggressiveness, qualities that are a must in dogs used for police work.

BEGIN TRAINING

Under the agreement reached Thursday, Disheroon and Stein are to take three dogs each and begin training them immediately.

They are to be paid at the rate of $80 per month for each dog, plus other expenses such as medical care for the animals and equipment.

The dog trainers also agreed to take the dogs back later for refresher courses at the rate of $1 a day for board.

The trainers also must select six officers from among 14 volunteers to train with the dogs. Jenkins said each officer selected would be granted six days out of the next three months to make up for the time spent in training.

Both Disheroon and Stein expressed confidence that the new man and dog teams could be placed into patrol operation by Feb. 1. Disheroon said he had trained dogs "all my life" and Stein said he had trained dogs for the last 17 years.

The aldermanic police committee Wednesday authorized Jenkins to go ahead with the K-9 corps program.

Jenkins recently made a study of the use of dogs in police work in Baltimore and other cities. He said he was impressed by the results and would like to begin such a corps here at least on an experimental basis.

Shell for Quemoy

TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI)—Communist Chinese artillery fired a single shell against Little Quemoy Island shortly before dawn Thursday, the Nationalist Defense Ministry reported.

Molester Gets 30 Years In Nude Pictures Case

A 30-year prison sentence was imposed Thursday on a bookkeeper who admitted molesting small children and making pictures of them in the nude.

Judge Jeptha C. Tanksley of Fulton Superior Court, handed down the sentence on James Manley Edwards of 2722 Gordon Rd., SW, and also imposed a 10-year suspended sentence.

Edwards, a bachelor and former Boy Scout worker and Sunday School teacher, pleaded guilty to four counts of molesting minors and five counts of manufacturing obscene, indecent and immoral photographs.

A pre-sentence psychiatric report to the court showed Edwards to be suffering from "sexual perversion without psychosis" and added that he required "extensive psychiatric care." The examination also showed indications of neurotic symptoms.

Edwards was charged with molesting minors, most of them aged 10 and 11 and one girl aged 4, and taking nude photographs of them in his apartment. Arresting officers confiscated a large number of nude photographs of children at his home, police said.

Emory's Boisfeuillet Jones Heads Senate's Medical Research Panel

Emory University Vice President Boisfeuillet Jones has been appointed chairman of a U.S. Senate-sponsored committee to study U.S. medical research efforts.

The appointment of Jones, administrator of health services at the Atlanta university, was announced by Sen. Lister Hill (D-Ala), chairman of the Senate subcommittee on labor, health, education and welfare.

The committee will be composed of leading scientists and laymen over the United States, Sen. Hill said. It will assist the subcommittee in making a report on the effectiveness of medical research.

Sen. Hill explained: "The health of the American people now and in the future is directly related to the scope and effectiveness of the nation's medical research effort. It is of the utmost importance that the Congress and the American people give full and undivided support to the achievement of better health through research."

Liquor Dealer Fined $100, Put on Probation by Oxford

Revenue Commissioner Dixon Oxford Thursday fined a Columbus liquor dealer $100 and put him on 12 months probation. He took an Atlanta case under advisement.

Carl Jones of 826½ Eighth Ave., Columbus, was charged with operating a lottery in a liquor store. Oxford said Jones has been charged in Superior Court on lottery charges but the case has not been called.

Columbus city detective J. W. Chapman and state revenue agent Jasper Merk found "bug" tickets in Jones' cash register, Oxford said.

The commissioner said he took another case, involving an Atlanta liquor store operator, under advisement. Abe Ney, who has a retail store at 395 Decatur St., was alleged to be operating a liquor store in a restricted area.

South Key to '60, Symington Says

United States is "security with solvency."

Symington noted that Soviet Premier Khrushchev said during his visit here last month that the Russians would defeat America on the economic front.

"The economic battle," Symington said, "would not be with bullets—but with a slow undermining. . . ."

The Senator said solvency is a serious problem because the government is "operating under the largest peace-time budget in history."

The senator is to be principal speaker Friday at a rural electrification meeting in Cairo.

Symington was invited to the Cairo meeting by Rep. J. L. Pilcher of Meigs.

The Congressman was asked whether Symington's appearance had any political significance.

"They've asked me every year to get an outstanding speaker," Pilcher parried.

Symington said that "if the cold war eases off," the questions of inflation and taxation woud become the chief campaign issues in 1960.

Is the cold war easing? "I think we can decide that better after these visits are completed," he replied. He recalled that the Geneva summit conference had led to hopes for peace but that "within a couple of months the Communists were selling arms in the Middle East."

Monday in testifying before the House subcommittee investigating charges that many TV quiz programs were rigged. The subcommittee is trying to determine whether new laws are needed to crack down on fixed shows.

It is scheduled to resume its inquiry Nov. 2 with testimony from Charles Van Doren, a $129,000 winner on the old "Twenty-One" quiz program. Van Doren has said he was never given questions or answers in advance despite testimony that the program was rigged.

The subcommittee also will look into another big money quiz, "The $64,000 Question," and possibly others. The investigators have brought out that a number of contestants on several programs willingly joined producers in fixing the shows so they could walk off with big prizes.

Kintner told the fall conference of the Broadcasters Association that they could be hurt in the pocketbook if such practices were continued. He warned that advertisers will take action if programs associated with their products turn out to be dishonest.

"Only a trustful public brings value to an advertiser's dollar," he said. "Let any abuse of public confidence undermine this trust, and the broadcasting industry is hurt and hurt badly."

He cautioned the industry not to take satisfaction from the "undeniable fact" that most radio-TV programs are honest. He said "any attempt to shrug off a hoax on the public as not warranting positive action is to whistle in the dark."

Steel Union Eases Pay Demands

"we are not without hope" of a settlement before Monday, when he must make his report to the President. The board's report is a necessary step to a government petition for an injunction that could halt the strike for 80 days.

The union's new proposal was reported to have found favor among officials whose plants have been tied up for 93 days. Whether the industry leaders would accept it and thereby end the biggest strike in American industry remained conjectural.

In any event, the fact of a new offer and its consideration were regarded generally as a hopeful sign.

Under the new proposal, there would be no wage rate increase in the first year. The first-year improvements would be confined to insurance, pensions and supplemental unemployment benefits. The total value of these would be about 10 cents an hour.

The second-year wages would be raised about 10½ cents an hour. Of that total, 7 cents would be a general rate rise. There would also be slight upward adjustments in the increments between classes of employes. The higher wage rate's effect on incentives and "fringes," such as paid holidays, accounts for the rest of the money in the 10½-cent item.

Robbed No One, Housewife Says

1958, the date of the other robbery, she went into great detail, tracing her movements from a doctor's appointment at 10:30 a.m., a telephone call at a drug store, a visit to a friend in a maternity ward, a purchase of flowers from a garden shop, a trip to a pharmacy to have a prescription filled, a sandwich and a cup of coffee in a drug store, and her arrival home about 1:30 p.m.

Although she began to show some of the strain of her ordeal, Mrs. Anderson retained the composure she has displayed since the trial started in U.S. District Court here Monday.

She still laughed when the attorneys and the jam-packed crowd of about 200 laughed. She still nodded and smiled at friends and acquaintances in the crowd that filled every seat and all the standing room at the rear. But she was pale and drawn, like a woman who didn't sleep well last night.

K. D. Davis, assistant manager of the Mountain Brook branch of Birmingham Trust Bank, testified that bank records showed Mrs. Anderson deposited a check for $47.80 to her husband's account about noon on Feb. 28, 1958.

At about the same time a gun-wielding woman was robbing City Federal Savings and Loan Co. of $1,633 in the nearby suburb of Homewood.

Davis said he wasn't able to say exactly when the deposit was made.

"But," he said, "the deposit slip shows Mrs. Anderson's deposit was No. 715 and the teller's tape shows that No. 715 was the first deposit after the teller had taken a break."

He said the teller normally took a break from 11:15 a.m. to 12 noon.

Miss Doris Glass, the branch's head teller whose number was stamped on the deposit slip, said she always started her break between 11:15 a.m. and 11:30 a.m.

She didn't recall Feb. 1958, specifically, she said.

Since Mrs. Anderson's arrest May 28, 1958— one week after the second robbery—she has protested her innocence and called her arrest preposterous.

Judge Alverson Speaks Today was pronounced dead by a physician summoned to the scene and her husband was taken to the Peach County Hospital, where he died.

Pender said a Negro man who worked for Upchurch at the gasoline agency told him his employer disconnected coil wires on the family car and station wagon in an apparent effort to keep Mrs. Upchurch from using the vehicles. He said the hired man, however, connected the wires on the station wagon for Mrs. Upchurch, who worked in her husband's office, but was unaware Upchurch was hiding in the vehicle.

The top Gold Emblem rating was awarded the Blakely-Union chapter at Blakely, the Perry chapter, and the Washington-Wilkes chapter at Washington. The Moultrie and Winder-Barrow chapters received Silver Emblems.

This is the 11th consecutive year that the Blakely-Union chapter has won a Gold Emblem. Perry and Washington-Wilkes also received this award last year.

Blakely-Union officers for the past year (during which the achievements were made to merit the Gold Emblem award) were Ansley Moore, president; David Williams, vice president; Charles Davenport, secretary; Jimmy Adum, treasurer; Roscoe Nash, reporter and R. N. Balkcom and T. A. Williams, advisors.

In the operation of the Blakely-Union chapter farm, they entered local, district and state project programs, thereby striving for better accomplishments than were made the year before. They also entered contests and stressed community service. The chapter had a chapter pig chain and gathered corn as a community service for the March of Dimes.

The Future Farmers of America has 8,898 local chapters, with associations in all the states and Puerto Rico.

As I See It

Borge Jabs Canned Laughs

By PAUL JONES

Victor Borge came up with the best comment about the current quiz show scandal the other night on the Jack Paar show.

Jones

He said that while the congressional committee is looking into the quiz show fix it ought to do something about the canned applause which is used on practically every show on television.

To Mr. Borge's way of thinking, canned laughter is as deceitful as was the rigging of the quiz games.

I won't go along with Victor all the way, but I do contend that canned applause has helped to give some really good shows a phony ring.

In fact, I turned off the Bob Hope show in disgust the other night simply because the audience reaction had been taken out of the library of recorded sound effects. The producers did such a lousy job of putting it on the sound track that it was out of timing in several places and the laughter came often before Hope had sprung his punch line.

Borge has assured us that he won't resort to any of these subterfuges when he does his show Friday night (Ch. 2 at 9).

Just how Mr. B. is going to get a "live" reaction on his show, most of which was taped in Denmark, is unknown to me. Apparently he will show the tape to a live audience in New York, add some live commentary of his own, throw in some fresh gags. I understand that he will play Rachmaninoff's Second Piano Concerto before the live audience, too.

• • •

SINCE MOST ALL shows on TV are either taped or filmed it becomes necessary for the producers of these shows to transcribe the guffaws and hand-clapping on the sound track, synchronizing it with the activity on the tape or film.

In only three instances has recorded laughter helped a TV show. And in all three instances the taped shows were shown to live audiences and the laughter was on the level.

I Love Lucy first used this technique of showing a taped show to a live audience. The Phil Silvers show used it too. The giggles and titters on those comedy shows were real and they sounded like it.

Now, the Many Loves of Doby Gillis is being taped and the taped shows are being shown to live audiences and the response is re-recorded on the sound track. There is no chance for the laughter to get out of "sync" with the lines.

• • •

I ENJOYED THE Telephone Hour the other night exceedingly well because the artists performed in a studio without an audience and, what's more, they didn't record any of that phony mitt-slapping at the conclusion of each number.

As each of the artists concluded his performance he quickly left the stage and the next artist came on and did his number.

If a musical selection is good we at home know it and we appreciate it without having to endure the nerve - shattering sounds of recorded applause. If a line is funny we at home know it is funny. We don't have to be told when to laugh.

Victor Borge

I hope that Borge sets a precedent with his show Friday night and it proves to the powers that be in TV that rigging the applause is dad-gummed aggrevating.

MRS. K. CLARK, of Atlanta, "After reading your column this morning (Oct. 14) I would like to know if you are against television or for it. You knock almost all of the programs and say things that are not so. This morning you wrote that The Price Is Right gives for prizes 'johnny-mops'. I watch this wonderful show every day and have never seen such an outrageous thing as a 'johnny-mop' given to anyone . . ."

Bilko's Ghost Lingers On In Silvers' 'Louie, Louse'

SATURDAY'S BEST BET — Phil Silvers realizes it will be hard for the public to separate Ernie Bilko from any new character he tries. And you'll see plenty of overtones of Bilko in Louie Cramfield, the protagonist of "The Ballad of Louie the Louse," on Silver's theory that variety programs with the same old guest stars are dull, so here is an original book show, with the cast chosen for their fitness for their roles. The music is mostly comedy songs, and the situation is basically a funny one—a much-hated loan shark is lost at sea in an airplane crash, and his clients take his going (and suosequent coming) with odd attitudes. There are some wonderful characters here—the shark's nephew, who keeps the books; the old beggar lady; the inveterate horse player; the ex-Pulitzer Prize winner who couldn't live with the honor; his sarcastic lady friend. Silvers, who has a part that is a natural for him, is assisted by Eddie Albert, Betsy Palmer and Pert Kelton in this production, which was written, directed and master-minded by Nat Hiken, the man who created Ernie Bilko. 9-10 (Ch. 5).

7:30-8 (Ch. 11)—You'll have a tonsil-side seat for a comeback on The Dick Clark Show Saturday, when Kitty Kallen makes her first TV appearance since 1955. Once a top recording star, she quit to be a housewife, but the lure of singing was too strong. She's made a fine new record, "If I Give My Heart to You," which is headed for the top, and she'll sing it tonight. Other guests are The Spacemen, The Passions and Ritchie Hart, who'll do a takeoff on Duane Eddy.

7:30-8:30 (Ch. 5) —Saturday Perry Mason investigates "The Case of the Garrulous Gambler," which finds him defending a man accused of murder. Surprised? This is a complicated job, with suspects scattered all around the poker table where the dirty work begins. There's a nasty con game being practiced, but somebody gets too greedy. Dick Foran plays Perry's client and poor Dick had his problems during the filming. He had a temperature of 105 with an attack of virus pneumonia, so if you see him mopping his brow in the courtroom scenes, it isn't ordinary perspiration. (Although they may decide to cut those scenes out.)

7:30-8:30 (Ch. 2) — You can watch pretty Jane Greer breathe her last (in color, too) on Bonanza Saturday. She gets involved with Michael Landon, one of the Ponderosa pals, but gets stabbed in the middle of the plot by Alexander Scourby. And so, good girl that she is, she sets out to disillusion Landon between final gasps. Miss Greer's real husband, a Los Angeles lawyer, liked this film so much he bought a color print for their home movie library.

Tic Tac Dough Stays on Ch. 2

Tic Tac Dough, one of the shows mentioned in the quiz show scandal, is not being taken off the air, athough the Oct. 17 issue of TV magazine, devoted to running television schedules, dropped it from the Ch. 2 schedule.

NBC-TV Friday said that the show was intact, despite the fact that one participating sponsor had pulled out.

Tic Tac Dough is still offered daily, Monday through Friday at 12:15 p.m. on Ch. 2.

A spokesman for the magazine said the show was dropped from the schedule "as a precautionary measure."

Take That Plug Out of Your Ears

Now a New Discovery Removes Deeply Buried Ear Wax Safely and Painlessly at Home

Have your friends ever said, "Take that plug out of your ears"? Do things sound muffled? The plug in your ears may be wax, buried where you can't get at it. Millions of Americans suffer from this ear wax trouble.

Deep, hidden wax (cerumen) may be a dangerous breeding ground for infection. It should be removed. But how? Sharp, pointed objects are unsuccessful, and may even puncture your ear drums.

How then? With painful instruments? Until recently, this was the only effective way.

Now a new medical discovery has changed everything. Now you can remove the deepest hidden ear wax yourself, at home. Safely. Quickly. And painlessly.

The discovery is Kerid Drops—a soothing, relieving preparation that actually softens the most stubborn wax plug in minutes. Wax can be flushed right out. Suddenly your ears feel clear, unblocked.

"Ring of Protection" Around PIMPLES and ACNE

The best way to stop the spread of pimples is to treat them before and after they open up. So at the first sign of a pimple . . . QUICK! Apply CAMPHO-PHENIQUE! This soothing, antiseptic liquid forms a "ring of protection" around pimples to help prevent their spread and re-infection. Because CAMPHO-PHENIQUE doesn't stain the skin, it can be applied right under make-up. So don't give ugly pimples a chance to spread . . . prevent it with CAMPHO-PHENIQUE'S "ring of protection". Let your face heal faster, naturally.

Life in the Thirties Parades Notables

By THE TV SCOUT

BEST BETS—Two fine programs are on Friday's schedule, with the first being Life in the Thirties, a treat from NBC's Project 20 shop. It's a lively review of those depression-filled years and manages to capture both the bitterness and joy of that important decade.

Jack Webb

Robert Taylor

All the familiar figures stride through—FDR, Will Rogers, Alf Landon, Father Coughlin, Huey Long, Bruno Hauptmann and Hitler and Mussolini. There is stirring footage of the dust bowl, labor battles, breadlines, bank runs, the end of prohibition.

The songs, orchestrated by Robert Russell Bennett, appropriately fit the pictures. Everyone will object to some omissions, but it's only an hour and something had to give. Originally, there was more footage on FDR's attempts to end the depression, but it was hard to sell a show with an obvious pro-FDR slant, so some changes were made. Now you'll hear some opposition voices.

Victor Borge's Copenhagen is Borge's most ambitious TV work so far. Most of this was filmed and taped in Denmark, although he will narrate it live and add a live piano part, playing Rachmaninoff's Second Piano Concerto. The show opens with a long, filmed look at Copenhagen and its famous amusement park, Tivoli Gardens, but this is far from a travelogue. It is comedy, set to pictures. There are sight gags thorughout this segment, with Borge popping up as a postman, a barge captain and a fishwife's (assisted by a flock of flounders). In Tivoli Gardens, there's a concert going on, and you may think you see Borge in the orchestra there, too. There are two sketches—one a spoof of Hamlet filmed at Elsinore, the other a brief courtroom sketch about the "Danish smile," the rumor that Danes smile no matter what happens to them. It is all good fun. 9-10 p.m., Ch. 2

7:30-8:30—Walt Disney Presents Friday night has a remarkable nature film, "Killers of the High Country." It is remarkable in itself and also notable because Disney is showing it in its entirely on TV first. The title refers to the American mountain lion.

10-10:30 (Ch. 11)—Robert Taylor is the first of the old frontline Hollywood male stars to have his own series, which bows Friday. It bears the unwieldly title, Robert Taylor Starring In The Detectives, a handicap from which, happily, it recovers. It is actually a fast-moving, logical and unemotional crime story, with some of Dragnet's underplaying, some of Perry Mason's detecting, some of Brenner's sensitivity. We open by watching a safe cracker at work. Murder follows and Taylor and his men follow through to a climax which, while unexpected, makes good sense. This was produced and directed by Arnold Laven, who also directed the pilot films for The Rifleman and The Plainsman. He's set a high standard in this opening episode.

RHYME A DAY

By OLLIE REEVES

"The best adjusted people are those who measure their strength against each day as it comes and enjoy whatever pleasure and benefit it brings."—Health column quote.

Today is the day that we never find . . . The day that's before us spread . . . For we're always looking too far behind . . . Or gazing too far ahead . . . Strange as it seems, we can never see . . . The swing of the pendulum . . . While we dream of things as they used to be . . . Or plan for the days to come.

This is the day, and the only day . . . That really belongs to us . . . And little by little it slips away . . . While riding the morning-bus . . . Or taking the time for a coffee-break . . . Or chatting awhile with friends . . . Or planning a trip that we hope to make . . . When our working-season ends.

This is the day that you dreamed about . . . Some forty-odd years ago . . . And now, that your head is pushing out . . . Where the thick hair used to grow . . . And now, that you're weak where you were strong . . . And your youth has passed away . . . Don't you agree, you will be wrong . . . If you don't enjoy today?

West Point Urges Port For Atlanta

The West Point City Council has mailed a letter to Mayor Hartsfield congratulating metropolitan Atlanta upon reaching one million population and pointing out that Atlanta is the largest city in the Southeast without water transportaion.

"You are lacking in one important facility to reach your second million and that is water transportation," the letter from West Point says.

"We would be pleased to see Atlanta a port city and to be one we must make the Chattahoochee River navigable from the Gulf to your city," the letter continues.

The letter states that the building of a multipurpose dam at West Point would bring the dream closer.

Health and Happiness

Miraculous Process Takes Care of Food

By DR. SARA JORDAN

It is a rather commonplace remark to say: "You sit opposite me at the breakfast table; your toast becomes part of you and mine part of me!" That is the miraculous transformation which takes place every time you and I eat. It is also the reason why we should give some thought to what and how we eat.

One of the most interesting phenomena of the dramatic process of digestion is implied in this very matter of how that toast and egg and every other particle of food we eat does become part of us.

The process of digestion begins in the mouth and is carried on in a very intricate way by the stomach and uppermost part of the small intestine in the area where bile from the liver and a digestive juice from the pancreas provide very necessary help for this chemical process of digestion.

When all is ready for the body to receive this well - prepared nutrition, there is the chore of transporting it to all those millions of cells which await their "daily bread." Nature has provided admirably for this remarkable feat.

The small intestine is pre-eminently the area which is equipped to take out of the intestinal contents what the body needs and to start those nutritive elements on their way to the body cells.

The equipment consists first of the length and calibre of the small intestine. It is a long structure and, in comparison with the rest of the digestive tube, its calibre is narrow. The reason for this length and narrow calibre is that the contents may come in close contact with the walls of the small intestine as they pass through.

Why the need for close contact? The very good reason is that in these walls there are projections of the mucosal lining, larger folds than elsewhere, and on each of these folds there are very minute structures called villi (singular—villus, a Latin word meaning a tuft of hair). There are millions of them, and for one thing they secrete more digestive jucies to take care of particles that have not had full treatment in the upper intestine and are, therefore, not yet ready to be absorbed. These juices contain ferments for the digestion of all three kinds of food.

Dr. Jordan cannot undertake to answer personal questions by mail. However, questions of general interest relating to health will be discussed from time to time in this column.

Morning Fog Stirs London

LONDON (UPI) — A familiar sight returned Thursday to London after the sunniest summer Britain has had in something like a couple of centuries—a morning fog.

The fog limited visibility to 20 yards on the city's outskirts and not much more in town. At London Airport visibility was 50 yards. A struggling, dim sun did away with most of the mist in time for the morning rush hour.

This Sunday afternoon over the ABC network, contract bridge will reach a new milestone with its first regular national TV presentation called "Championship Bridge with Charles Goren." A series of weekly rubber bridge matches between the country's leading experts will highlight the show.

The program's producer, Walter Schwimmer, is an ardent bridge fan himself and a skilled player as will be observed from today's hand. Seated West with a virtual Yarborough, he was still able to impart essential information to his partner in defending against South's four spade contract.

Mr. Schwimmer opened the king of hearts. East overtook and cashed three rounds, West discarding the deuce of diamonds. A fourth heart was led but South ruffed in with the ten of spades and started to run down all the trumps. West could contribute nothing to the partnership but information as to the distribution.

Observe in what an awkward situation East finds himself. The bidding and play mark declarer with the ace and king of clubs, in addition to six spades and three hearts, but what is his 13th card? If it is a club, East must discard the queen of diamonds. If it is a diamond, East must unguard his clubs. In any event, his selection may be deferred for four rounds.

During that time Mr. Schwimmer, who had already discarded two diamonds, threw the five, seven, and nine of diamonds in that order. His actions made it quite clear that declarer had the blank ace of diamonds and, therefore, was marked with three clubs, and it became routine for East to keep his queen guarded and to let go a high diamond.

Note that had West lost interest in the proceedings and made his discards at random, his partner would have been placed in the extremely uncomfortable position of having to guess which suit to unguard.

had been dumped along a public highway it would have been found, particularly in the extensive search for Fannin.

Hill also noted that Fannin said he threw away the knife in Texas, but Florida officers reported a blood-stained knife was found on the seat in Fannin's car. The sheriff said Florida officials told him Fannin's wife said the knife resembled her husband's knife.

"Until we come up with something definite," Hill added, "Pulaski County is not placing any charge against Fannin."

Under sedatives in the California hospital, Fannin Wednesday told officers his name and said he remembered picking up a hitchhiking Air Force enlisted man. He added that the man attacked him, that they fought and that his mind blanked out after he was slugged on the head.

ADMITS HOAX

Sheriff's Lt. Fred Mannen said that under further questioning Thursday Fannin admitted the amnesia story was faked.

He said he did not know where he had shoved the hitchiker from the car, except that it was along a stretch of road with hanging trees beside it.

His story Thursday, as related by Mannen, was that he picked up the hitchhiking airman, who attacked him with a blackjack.

He said he fought back and stabbed the hitchhiker with his pocket knife in self-defense and later pushed him from the car.

After abandoning the car at Panama City, he said, he took a bus to Pensacola, Fla., then traveled by plane to New Orleans and made his way to Dallas, Tex. There he threw away his identification papers and the knife, then hitchhiked on to California.

FATHER'S STATEMENT

Fannin, a salesman for the Lederle Drug Co. of Pearl River, N.Y., was on a selling trip out of his headquarters at Atlanta when he disappeared after checking out of a motel in Hawkinsville Oct. 7.

On Atlanta, Fannin's father, 50-year-old Mitchell S. Fannin of Whitley City, Ky., said:

"It (the stabbing) didn't happen. My son didn't do anything like that. I think they interrogated him to the point that they got him to admit something that never happened. There may have been some struggling in the car, but as far as him killing anybody, it just didn't happen."

The elder Fannin, who reported his son had a habit of picking up hitchhikers, said California officials would not let him talk to the son. The father, a former Kentucky state representative who wons an auto accessories store in Whitley City, had posted $1,000 reward for information leading to his son's whereabouts.

Humor Is an Individual Matter, Dozier Cade Tells Writers Club

"The anatomy of humor" is an individual matter and varies according to circumstances, Dr. Dozier C. Cade told the Atlanta Writers Club Thursday night.

Assistant to the president of Georgia State College and a journalism professor, Dr. Cade explained that according to most authorities the main element of humor is its unexpected twists on a familiar situation.

He said some psychologists say laughter is caused by a pleasant release from anxiety built up prior to the punchline, adding that Darwin called the laugh a "primeval grunt" that evolved into the laugh.

Preceding Cade was a program of five poems. "Dance of October Dogwoods" by Atlanta author Mrs. Frances Mack was read by club president Dr. Bert H. Flanders, and Helen Deutsch's "The White Magnolia Tree" was read by Mrs. Wynona Jones. Mrs. Edith Mitchell sang "So, Dear Land That I Love" by Sidney Lanier, "Rainsong" by Robert Loveman and "Sweet Miss Mary" by Frank L. Stanton.

Hotel Burglar Routed by Woman's Screams, Leaves Coat

By KEELER McCARTNEY

A Columbia, S.C., woman late Thursday dropped by her room on the seventh floor of a downtown hotel and surprised a burglar, police said.

Patrolmen G. E. Wallace and D. E. Smith said if Mrs. J. D. Bullock had arrived only minutes later she would have found the room stripped of clothing and other items belonging to her and her husband,

As it was, Mrs. Bullock frightened away the fire escape-climbing burglar. Patrolmen said instead of carting off the Bullock's clothing, as he intended to do, he lost his own coat while making a hasty exit.

The coat was impounded as evidence.

Mr. and Mrs. Bullock had gone out for dinner. Afterwards, Mr. Bullock decided to walk around window shopping. Mrs. Bullock decided to go back to the hotel room and rest.

As she entered the room, she noticed the lights were turned on and recalled that she and her husband had turned out the lights before leaving.

"Who's there?" she called.

A figure in a soiled, plaid sports shirt and dark trousers bolted for the window, overturning the television set as he ran, and dived under the burglar screen on the window to the roof of a theater building next door.

"I yelled as loud as I could," Mrs. Bullock said. "That's all I could think of."

Mrs. Bullock said the intruder had removed the clothing from closets and packed it into suitcases and removed the suitcases to the window. She added he evidently espied a watch which her husband had left on a table and went back for it as she opened the door..

The intruder dropped the watch at the window and did not take the time to pick up the suitcases, patrolmen said.

Wallace and Smith said he evidently climbed a fire escape on the Cain street side of the theater building, reached the room and climbed from there into the window of the room occupied by the Bullocks.

Apparently he removed his coat before attempting to squeeze under the screen on the hotel window, patrolmen said. They added the coat was found outside the window.

Employes Ask City For Raises

Request Increases Of $1.2 Million

By HERMAN HANCOCK

An expected drive for salary raises and fringe benefits for 3,200 non-school employes of the city costing more than $1.2 million dollars a year was opened formally Thursday.

A delegation from the Atlanta City Employes Union, backed by officials of the Atlanta and Georgia Labor Council of AFL-CIO, presented the requests for raises beginning next year to Ald. John A. White, finance committee chairman.

White told E. H. Stewart, president of the union, and other members of the delegation, "We will consider the matter sympathetically."

CITES ABILITY

The alderman, however, added: "We will do what we can within the city's ability to pay. We will know more about our fiscal standing for the new year around the end of 1959."

Stewart and the delegation asked an across the board two-step salary hike for all employes except policemen and firemen and school employes. It is estimated some 3,200 city workers would be involved and that the annual cost would be around $925,000.

In addition, the delegation sought to standardize sick leaves.

The union resolution asks that 1½ days of sick leave be granted for each month of service and that the days be cumulative up to 90 days for each employe. At present, employes are granted sick leaves on recommendation of department heads. No recommendation by a departmental chief has been turned down, and some extended leaves have been granted, observers said.

INCENTIVE PAY

Incentive pay for veteran workers was proposed. The union representatives asked $10 per month automatic salary hike in addition to all other raises for workers having 15 years of service, and an additional $10 a month hike for each additional five years of service.

City Comptroller Earl Landers estimated the salary increases asked would cost approximately $925,000 a year, and that based on existing employments incentive pay would cost another $60,000 annually. He, however, said any estimate of the cost of a guaranteed sick leave would be hazardous. The experience of many other cities is that where definite periods for sick leaves are guaranteed, some employes take the time off even though some of them are not considered ill enough to abandon their posts.

For weeks, the campaign for more salaries has been brewing. It broke into the open Thursday.

Byrd Urges Alliance for State Rights

Lt. Gov. Byrd Thursday repeated his proposal for a "compact of states" to map a course for following the law "as we believe the Constitution sets it forth."

In a speech Thursday night to the Georgia Credit Union League in Atlanta, Byrd reviewed an address he made earlier this week to the Alabama Legislature.

He charged "unauthorized and unlawful federal pressure" is being used in a "massive assault upon our (states') rights and liberties."

He said Georgia would resist a breakdown of "our ideals and institutions" with "every legal means and resource."

The problems Georgia faces is common to most Southern states, he said, and urged that all state governments of the region create commissions similar to Georgia's Commission on Constitutional Government.

He proposed that the commissions then meet jointly to "determine what course the individual states can follow—or, what course sovereign states working together—may follow to maintain constitutional government for this nation."

The address was broadcast over WSB-Radio.

Japan Loaders Bar Missiles

TOKYO (UPI)—Leaders of ten labor unions warned the government Thursday union members would attempt to prevent the landing of the first sidewinder missiles bought from the United States when the weapons arrive here.

A delegation led by representatives of the militant all-Japan dockworkers union called on Minister of State Munenori Akagi, director of the National Defense Agency, to protest the purchase of the missiles as "the first step toward nuclear armament."

DeKalb Retail Sales Climb

DeKalb County has climbed from fifth place to fourth place in retail sales in the state in 1958 according to the DeKalb County Chamber of Commerce.

The advance edges Bibb County and Macon from the fourth position. During 1957 the county replaced Richmond County and Augusta to take the fifth place county in retail sales.

Chamber General Manager Bill Broome said the figures, recently released by the U.S. Department of Commerce revealed a gain of 188 per cent in retail sales in the county from 1948 to 1958. Broome said they showed an increase of more than $100,000,000 in the decade.

Atomic Fallout To Continue, Navy Biophysicist Says Here

Levels of atomic fallout may continue to grow for the next four or five years, even if the one-year moratorium on atomic weapons testing is made permanent, a U.S. Navy biophysicist said here.

Whether that level is, or will become harmful to human life is anybody's guess, according to Dr. Hermann J. Schaefer, German-born American citizen, who is the U.S. Naval School of Aviation Medicine director of biopsysics.

Dr. Schaefer, speaking at the United Liberal Church, pointed out that the effects of a high level of radiation contamination may be negligible if the human organism developed without having to adapt to the natural radiation bombardment from space and from the elements, such as radium.

On the other hand, the raising of the radiation level in the atmosphere might upset the natural balance and cause serious increases in radiation-caused diseases and a shortening of man's life span.

"We can only hope that it will not be a one-year moratorium, but a permanent one," Dr. Schaefer said. He pointed out that it would seem foolish to continue to raise the level of atmospheric radioactivity until we are more aware of the consequences.

100 Artists Display 1,000 Works in Sidewalk Exhibit at Lenox Square

With Jack Frost hinting he's about ready to paint the town, Atlanta artists have beaten him to the brush.

However, instead of working on leaves, the artists are displaying their talents on the Mall at Lenox Square for the fourth annual Sidewalk Art Show.

More than a thousand paintings representing the works of over 100 artists are on exhibit with everything from three-dimensional tile birds to classic portraits and landscapes.

The show, sponsored by the Atlanta Water Color Club headed by Ralph Jackson, will continue through Saturday at 6 p.m. The show opens at 10 a.m. Friday until 9 p.m.

Previously the sidewalk art has been featured along the streets of Buckhead. But this year, with the arty background of Lenox, there is a wide range of paintings, including some of odd shapes which might best be described as jazz in Technicolor.

In addition to painting, examples of china decoration, ceramics and rug hooking were on exhibit.

And the artists, braving the rain opening day Wednesday and the chilly mist Thursday morning, told of even greater handicaps they overcame to get this show on the road.

"We just moved down from Baltimore," explained one man, busy arranging his wife's pottery. "These pieces represent her work that arrived intact. Can you imagine what it's like moving a studio of three kilns and all this pottery?"

But not only the artists were going to great lengths to get the show launched successfully.

A first chance to get into wool clothes and a good opportunity to combine this winter fashion parade with a good view of whats new in Atlanta's art world couldn't be overlooked. And not many Atlantans in that vicinity were missing the boat.

Five-month-old Ed Bolden had to wait patiently while mother, Mrs. Charles E. Bolden, took a look around the Mall. Sitting in his stroller, he seemed to get the idea that his new shoes would just have to wait until mother got through looking at all those nice breakable things.

Before he was pushed away from the ceramics counter, his eyes seemed to have that certain glint —you know, that vase would make such a nice noise when it was dropped.

Back in the center of things, shoppers and artists and even dogs weaved in and out the Mall, a real modernistic pattern itself.

A Rare Smith—A Woman Silversmith

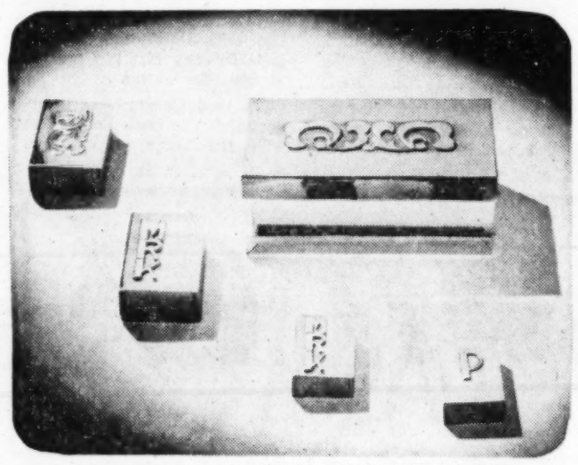
By YOLANDE GWIN

SAVANNAH—The tiny woman was spied beyond the wrought iron entrance gates to one of this city's famous old houses.

Maria Regnier

She was banging away on a table, swinging a six-pound hammer with ease and finesse.

Her name is Madame Maria Regnier and she is one of the very, very few women silversmiths in the world. A creative silversmith, she combines in her designs, all done entirely by hand, gold and silver items blending the old world with the stark modernity of the new.



SMOKING ACCESSORIES HAND MADE

Simplicity Is Keynote for Elegance in Design

A native of Hungary, Madame Regnier came to the United States in 1921 and made her home in St. Louis before moving to Savannah where her home is at 14 East Macon Street.

"I suppose designing first interested me when I was a child in a convent in Hungary," she said between bangs on a tea spoon in the making. "My mother wanted me to be a nun and I went to the convent. My hands ached to make things because I suppose I had a very creative mind.

"When I came to this country I resumed my study and work of oriental rug-weaving at Washington University," she said.

"I suppose I would have followed this hobby to this very day if one of my art teachers hadn't shown me a small pewter cigarette box. I was thrilled at the idea that perhaps I could do the same. The more I thought of it, the more fascinated I became so I decided to study the real techniques of the work. I went to the Rhode Island School of Design at Providence, and later studied in Europe."

And why silver?

"I love to work in silver because, unlike gold which scoffs at you, it is co-operative. I like to work with large pieces because of the extensive areas which reflect light, somehow they seem more alive and afford greater pleasure to work with."

Madame Regnier makes table silver, but each set is in a different pattern. Each is hand wrought and in all her pieces simplicity is the keynote. In addition to serving pieces, she makes compacts, pins, rings, necklaces, earrings, lipstick cases, cigaret boxes and ash trays as creative works. In addition she makes trays, complete tea and coffee services and candelabras.

In making boxes, the parts are soldered together and then pickled in muriatic acid for cleaning. The designs are sawed out and then soldered on. Curved bowls, teapots and similar objects go through a process of fluting, hammering and annealing. One teapot the little dark-haired silversmith made represents 240 hours of work.

She designs almost everything first on paper and then a template, made of thin bronze or copper. This is then put on a sheet of silver and cut. A standard sheet measures 10x21 inches.

"I think that the beauty and glowing warmth of silver, whether in flat ware or hollow ware, is most evident when it is hand-crafted," she continued. "I like simplicity but not the fancy nor gingerbread style of the Victorian era."

Madame Regnier's jewelry is set with many precious and semi-precious stones, including a 285-karat aquamarine in a necklace, and the "obsidian mask," a hard stone from which Indians fashioned their arrowheads.

In her large bookshelves are many history books, relative to the fine arts and many personal items. She holds a B.S. in art education, worked on the specifications for top-secret experimental airplanes during the last war and kept a data book on Allied and enemy planes for the chief engineer of the plant to which she was assigned.

Her creative hands have led her into another field, for she has compiled an interesting cookbook called "Maria's Cook Book." She goes in heavy for herbs and some of her very special recipes use them as a basis for their exotic flavor.

ADVENTURES IN LIVING

Until You Have Lived Through a War, You Can't Realize the Primitivity of Exile

By MRS. E. BYRON HILLEY

As Told to Harriette Weinstein

When the Germans marched on Paris, I was working with a branch of the French government.

We didn't know what would happen. The worst part was that everyone was retreating and had no place to stop. The people from Belgium were coming through France. I saw one Belgian family with a dead child in the car and they couldn't even stop to bury it.

I worked at the train station helping the refugees pouring through the country, including smuggling out French Jews. Everyone was so scared that human feelings vanished. Fear brings out the beastly nature of people. The greedy will try to sell you water. Everyone is an enemy of everyone else.

At a Civil Defense meeting here in Atlanta the other day, they were discussing a nice orderly retreat and dumping the children 100 miles away.

"Who will take care of them?" I asked. "The inhabitants won't. Retreat by the book is one thing and in real life another."

After a while, the most difficult thing was transportation. The French destroyed much to slow down the German advance. The Germans destroyed transportation to slow down French retreat. And, after it was over, the civilians suffered.

Until you have lived through it, you have no idea of the primitivity of the exile. For cars, you need gas and parts, which no one had. So people—Belgians, Dutch and French—just took their legs and started going . . . from one country to another.

Paris was like a funeral home. All residences, businesses and shops were closed. The people who stayed in Paris—some of my family did but I left—stayed in their apartments for a week with the shutters closed. No one even peeped out.

When I left Paris, I went to Annecy, which was under Italian occupation. The Italian occupation was like a comic opera. They went about in civilian clothes because they were afraid of the French underground. They hid their uniforms except when the Germans sent someone to check on them. It was pleasant and the Italians didn't mind the French as the Germans did. We stayed in the same hotel where the Italian officers were.

AMERICAN HAMBURGERS, FRENCH FURNITURE BLEND FOR HILLEYS

A Native of France, Mrs. Hilley Recalls the War Years and Effects

One day, everything was rosy between the Germans and Italians. They were allies. Then, over the radio came the news that Italy fell, and the next day the Italians were prisoners of the Germans.

We heard boots up and down the corridors that night. When we came downstairs for breakfast that morning, we had to show our identity cards to get out of our rooms. There were the Germans seated in chairs and the Italian officers lined up in front of them.

No one could leave at first. Later, I went back to Paris by train. It took 36 hours. The rails would be bombed and they'd put us on a side car. Then they would put passengers in troop cars and troops in passenger cars so the troops could escape allied aircraft.

But we made it.

During the war, people bartered for food and clothing. Peasants had Persian carpets and silver bowls. And before the war ended, they were insisting on money only — gold, mostly.

The hardest of all was when the Germans were defeated and left Paris. France was left with two factions — the ones who had worked with the Germans and the ones who had starved to fight the Germans.

It's hard for outsiders to understand. The ones who worked with the Germans were no worse. They had to survive. And when you have a struggle to survive, you lose much of the moral standards in regular life — fair play and altruism don't survive the rigors of survival.

And, surprising to some, it was the cunning ones who worked with the Germans who were the first to work with the Americans. The underground, who had lasted the war on nothing while the cunning survived well. That was part of the bitterness.

If a lot of people had not loved money more than life itself many people wouldn't have been able to get food otherwise. The shops were opened long before the guns ceased. You walked toward the bakery, waited until the machine guns stopped, walked a little farther until you got there.

I met my husband in Paris. France was occupied so many times — by the Germans, Italians, English and Americans. I was tired of always being the vanquished. So I decided to make a conquest of my own.

Mr. Hilley, a law professor at Emory University, met Mrs. Hilley when he got lost in Paris after the war. They were married in 1946 and Mrs. Hilley came by ship to this country with 400 war brides from 16 countries. The Hilleys' three children — Didier, 12, Ronald, 8, and Marinette, 1—were born in Atlanta. Mrs. Hilley is a graduate of the law school of the University of Paris.

'Beef-Cake?' He Yawns

DEAR GEORGE:

Us women aren't at all interested in Miss America contests but are interested in Mr. America contests—we would enjoy seeing more "beef-cake" in the news and less cheesecake. It's only fair. Don't you agree?

DEAR FEMALE:

In a spirit of objectivity, I have turned your proposal over to several of my research staffers, phrased as a simple question: "Would you prefer to see more beef-cake and less cheesecake?" The answers follow: "Ridiculous!" "The very idea!" "What an idiotic proposal!" Thank you, Tom, Dick and Harry.

HAVE YOU EVER WONDERED?

How a Defeated Petunia Feels After the Show

By JOYCE GEMMILL

My name is Paul, and I am Petunia. I am a very cultural horticultural home garden type and lead a very clean life—for a petunia that is.

I was raised by a very fussy matron who was president of the Garden Club last year. I say fussy because I was only allowed to associate with the finest in the flora department. I might add that we dislike being associated with the fauna although there is a speaker that comes to the Garden Club every year and bandies the phrase 'flora and fauna' around in what I would call a very indiscriminate fashion.

All flowers take a dim view of the fauna. If you've ever had a cocker spaniel or a Great Dane pad over you like you weren't there at all, you'd know what I mean. This is particularly discouraging after being up all night entertaining a very streamlined ginger lily by the light of a lightning bug. We were madly in love!

DIDN'T WIN
Defeated Petunia

However, this didn't help my feelings any, when Lola, my lovely lily, walked off with the first prize at our show this week. Now don't think I'm the sensitive type. I don't give a hoot about getting my picture in the paper but I do think I deserve some recognition.

You don't know how it makes you feel, when you can hardly hold your head up, to attend one of these functions and then be completely snubbed. Having been in show business all my life however, I realize the show must go on.

I will admit that Lola looked particularly lovely Tuesday. She's just one of those gals that never looks like she's been up all night. I might add that Lola is one of the few women I know who can still look glamorous wearing a milk bottle.

Now that the show is over, I can honestly say I didn't really mind not getting a blue ribbon. It's Lola! She's so different now. Last night she barely nodded to me. You can tell that success has gone straight to her beautiful little head.

Oh the plans we had! By the way, have you ever seen a petunia-lily?

TOBE SAYS

Square-Cut Bulky Coat

An opposite to the Givenchy semi-fitted Perfect Coat, is the big bulky square-cut or cape-like coat that is widely sponsored by the Paris Couture.

Balenciaga launched this trend last winter, you will recall, giving us a big bulky square-cut coat with natural fullness at the back, without any ripples or flares, and he follows through again this season. It was the most popular coat in Paris in the spring.

Gres, too, who has always sponsored these voluminous coats, has also created several coats in her new collection that I'm sure you'll like. My favorite is a voluminous double-breasted bat wing coat with a very deep and becoming cowl collar, wide soft shoulders, and big kimono cuffed sleeves.

I like it especially as she showed it in Lesur oyster white and gray double-faced wool.

Celestine Sibley

Even the First Lady Loved WAC Shoes

WASHINGTON—Things have changed a lot since the early days of World War II when the first women put on uniforms and those ugly shoes and joined the Armed Forces to serve their country.

Fred A. Bantz, former J. C. Penney executive who now serves as undersecretary of the Navy, recalled the other day the Navy recruiter who assumed that the same height and weight requirements applied to women as to men.

He turned down a lot of would-be WAVES, Mr. Bantz said, but the ones he got were fine, muscular, upstanding Amazonians.

That recruiter should have been present to hear Mr. Bantz talking to the Defense Advisory Committee on Women in the Services. He was full of praise for the high quality of women in the armed forces and their devotion to duty, quoting such people as Gen. Max Taylor, former Army chief of staff, and Adm. Chester Nimitz as saying women were becoming "increasingly important" to the service.

Mr. Bantz admitted there are "still some doubting Thomases both in the service and outside" but he thinks they become converts when they have an opportunity to serve with women.

At least the recruiter would have been disabused of the notion that a woman doffs her femininity when she puts on a military uniform if he could have been present when the nine directors of the various services took the stage to talk to DACOWITS. They not only looked like women, they looked like pretty women. And about half of them were small women, including Capt. Winifred Quick, the blond, blue-eyed director of the WAVES.

These women in their trim uniforms look so smart that one of the DACOWITS members told me that when she saw them she felt like going back up to her room and dressing all over again.

"They shine so," this woman observed wistfully. "Clean faces and gleaming hair and polished shoes and straight seams and dazzling white gloves—all smooth and simple with softness but no fuss. Even their lipstick goes on better than mine. I wonder if the military teaches them that?"

The military may not have an actual course in the application of lipstick but the young maidens who wear the uniform are schooled in immaculate, meticulous grooming. And the fact that DACOWITS envy their appearance is pretty revealing because some of the DACOWITS members are very stylish ladies indeed.

The weather up here switched from hot to chilly overnight and I was worried that my good blue cotton dress wasn't going to be warm enough.

"Don't worry," a committee member comforted me at breakfast. "The Pentagon is always cold anyhow. Just sit next to Mrs. Anthony Drexel Biddle and she'll let you share her sables. I got cold when we were here last April and she invited me to bundle up with her."

"Sables?" asked another DACOWITS. "She was wearing fox last night."

Sables, fox or mink . . . I can't tell the difference but Mrs. Biddle did have a fur piece (worn casually over a violet wool suit) and she did offer to share it, when I hinted pretty broadly. I got the impression that she, too, feels overdressed in the presence of the smart simplicity of women in uniform.

Except for the sturdy oxfords worn in marching the shoes are no longer ugly. And oddly enough the women in the service seem to have an affection for the ungainly oxfords, mostly because they are so comfortable. In fact, Col. Mary Louise Milligan, director of the WAC, told me a friend of hers met a plump, elderly woman at a Washington party some years ago, heard her complain that her feet hurt and said bluntly, "You're wearing the wrong kind of shoes. Get some like these."

Later at a White House reception the WAC officer realized with horror she had been talking to Mrs. Harry Truman. But it was all right. The then First Lady thanked her for her advice. She had got WAC shoes and loved them!

PIN-WORMS MAY BE A FAMILY AFFAIR

Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms . . . ugly parasites that medical experts say infest one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do . . . and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge . . . the small, easy-to-take tablets perfected by famous Dr. D. Jayne & Son, specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years.

Malpractice Panel Urged by Doctor

Conflicting Medical Testimony Disgusts Public, Physicians Told

By MARION GAINES
Constitution Staff Writer

SAVANNAH—A blistering attack on "conflicting medical testimony" in malpractice suits left Georgia's family doctors leaning Thursday toward the creation of a court-appointed impartial medical panel.

In New York City and Pennsylvania, panels operating under an "Impartial Medical Testimony Program" have worked so well that 80 per cent of their medical claims are being settled out of court, the doctors were told.

"False claims and false logic" in malpractice trials are leaving the public disgusted with both lawyers and doctors, declared Dr. A. Reynolds Crane of Philadelphia.

WRITER SPEAKS

A self-described writer of "expert opinions on numerous court cases," Dr. Crane regaled the medical men attending the 11th annual convention of the Georgia Academy of General Practice here.

Not all medical claims are unfounded, Crane emphasized, but, he added:

"No matter how unreliable the plaintiff or how flimsy his story, a lawyer always can be found to take the case and a doctor always found to testify . . . no matter how meager his knowledge of the disease or injuries claimed."

CITES ABSURDITIES

Cancer claims furnish "excellent examples" of absurdities involved in some malpractice suits, Crane said, with the plaintiff's claim usually being that a traumatic injury induced or spread a cancerous infection.

A 60-year-old man developed lung cancer after "having been struck on the left shoulder," Crane said.

Expert medical testimony in court was that "in all probability the injury caused the cancer" because the force of the blow would be felt throughout the body "and readily damage the lung," he said.

"Does this mean," Crane asked with sarcasm, "that hitting your finger with a hammer may give you cancer of the lung?"

DEFINED TERMS

In defining terms that frequently crop up in malpractice trials, Crane spoofed "pecuniary indemnity" as being "a form of exchange enabling a person to live in a manner to which he is neither entitled nor accustomed."

Before packing their little black bags and heading for home late Thursday, the family doctors listened to a refresher course in diagnosing respiratory ailments which was presented by Dr. Count Gibson, director of the Home Medical Service at the Boston (Mass.) Dispensary and professor of preventive medicine at Tufts University.

Dr. Gibson, an Atlanta native who was graduated from old Boys High School and the Emory University medical school, deplored in an interview the over-use of antibiotics by patients and doctors.

VIRAL TYPES

"Antibiotics have no effect on the viral types of respiratory diseases," Gibson said, "but most people, when they get a little feverish, will run to their doctor and demand a shot of penicillin—and the doctor usually gives in to them."

On the other hand, in bacterial respiratory ailments (such as strep throat and ear infections)—which can be treated with antibiotics—"patients will stop treatment as soon as they feel a little better regardless of their doctor's advice," he said.

"They stop before all the bacterial germs have been killed," he said, "and have another flare-up the following month."

GEORGIA NEWS ROUNDUP

Rep. Blitch Confined To Home by Infection

Rep. Iris Blitch of Georgia's Eighth District has suffered a recurrence of a kidney infection and was confined to her home in Homerville Thursday.

A spokesman said doctor's orders will probably force her to cancel an extensive speaking schedule she had planned throughout her district.

Mrs. Blitch spent two weeks in a Washington hospital after Congress adjourned last month, but recovered sufficiently to return home and make several speeches in Waycross and Valdosta recently.

Diphtheria at Albany

Health authorities announced in Albany Thursday that three acute cases of diphtheria have occurred in widely separated areas there.

Dr. David M. Wolfe, Dougherty County health commissioner, warned that, because of the geographical distribution of the cases, there could be several healthy diphtheria carriers in the Albany area.

Unfair Labor Case

A National Labor Relations Board trial examiner recommended Thursday that a Columbus firm which builds pre-fabricated homes be ordered to stop unfair labor practices.

The action was brought against the Preferred Homes Corp. by the Millmen Local No. 2768, United Brotherhood of Carpenter and Joiners of America, AFL-CIO.

The union charged that the company sought to discourage union membership, refused to reinstate a former employe because of his union activities, coercively interrogated employes concerning union activities and threatened to shut down its shop if the union organized its employes.

Insurer Assails Stiffening of Rules

An opponent of proposed strict requirements for insurance agents Thursday declared that they would, in effect, set up a "closed shop" for those already in the insurance business.

A special legislative committee considering a broad revision of Georgia's insurance laws heard many objections to the proposal. Only one speaker at the public hearing favored the more rigid requirements.

George Ervin of the Georgia Association of Insurance Agents said he would like to see the committee put some of their changes in the proposed revision.

The committee has suggested that the present method of allowing insurance agents to gain licenses—by examination—be tightened to provide a period of apprenticeship. A prospective agent who had taken courses in insurance at a school or college would serve a 6-month apprenticeship with a qualified agent. One who had not obtained classroom work would have to serve a year.

Another proposal, and one that drew considerable criticism, would call for every insurance agent to post an insurance policy or bond of $10,000 to $20,000 to cover negligent acts, errors or omissions.

These proposals are included in a section of the proposed code dealing with insurance other than life, health or accident. Agents selling these types of insurance would not be affected by these specific proposals.

The charge that the committee was suggesting a "closed shop" came from Charles Parham, vice president and secretary of the Georgia Insurance Security Co. He said the proposed provisions "will close the door to new agents."

Parham said he felt the present examination method of clearing agents "seems quite adequate."

Ben Cheek, president of the Georgia Consumers Finance Assn., an organization of about 350 small loan companies, said that "practically all of the men engaged in the writing of insurance have had training and must pass an examination."

These statements were reiterated by a number of speakers. One, Harry Brown, vice president of the Georgia Farm Mutual, pointed out that his group is composed of 2,700 Georgia Farm Bureau members and said that the strict requirements would work a hardship on the new company. Georgia Farm Mutual was only organized this year.

Steve Martin of the National Association of Independent Insurance Agents said the insurance or bond requirements is "not necessary because the companies have the ultimate responsibility as a matter of civil liability."

He also charged that such a bond would "create litigation" in that "people will be bringing cases all the time on minor matters."

Martin said that other professions, such as doctors, lawyers, morticians and the like are not required to have a bond against negligent acts or errors.

Motel Loan At Jekyll Approved

Final approval of a $1,250,000 loan for a Jekyll Island motel and a $52,600 loan to a Savannah transport firm were made Thursday by the Georgia Industrial Development Administration.

The loans were made from funds of the Teachers Retirement System.

The larger loan went to the United Motel Inc., a firm which plans a 174-unit motel on Jekyll Island to be known as the Thunderbird. It is a 20-year loan and represents 60 per cent of the $1,948,850 value placed on the property.

State Treasurer Hamilton said this loan had been tentatively approved previously but that some changes had been asked before final approval was given.

The Savannah loan went to the Hanover Real Estate Corp., and Overnite Transportation Co., for a terminal which already has been erected. Hamilton said it was his understanding the companies are an interlocking corporation and they asked the 10-year loan to pay off a construction loan.

Drought Exposes Napoleonic Bridge

WARSAW (AP) — Lowering of the Vistula River by drought has exposed timbers of a long-forgotten Napoleonic bridge off the end of Warsaw's Bednarska Street. The only blessing of the drought, authorities say, is the chance to clear away obstructions at the lowest level the river has reached in nearly a century.

Plane Will Relay TV To Schools in 6 States

CHICAGO (AP)—A multimillion-dollar educational television experiment to cover a six-state area was announced Thursday by a group of educators.

Described as a potential major breakthrough in low-cost multichannel instructional TV, the long-range experiment will transmit courses from a DC7 aircraft some 20,000 feet over north-central Indiana.

The potential audience for the experiment will be some five million students in 13,000 schools and colleges in parts of Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Michigan, Ohio and Wisconsin.

Programs will be transmitted from ground-based facilities at Purdue University in Lafayette, Ind., to the circling plane from which they will be retelecast throughout the region.

Individual institutions will participate on a voluntary basis. Their only costs will be the receiving equipment.

The experiment is being conducted by the Midwest Council on Airborne Television Instruction. With the support of the Ford Foundation.

Monk, Doctor, Printer Jailed In Assassination

Reds Vow 42 Pct. Rise In Luxury Items by '62

MOSCOW—The Soviet government has ordered an immediate increase in the production of consumer goods to meet the "ceaselessly growing" demand of its people.

An announcement published here early Friday morning promised substantial action by all organs of government to ease the shortages and to better assess consumer's wishes.

The government promised new designs of everything from lamp shades to refrigerators, the development even of cleaning fluids and great changes in quality "to match the best foreign samples."

The government offered only a few statistics for changes in its plans. The wholesale value of leading consumer goods produced in 1961, it vowed, would be about 42 per cent greater than the value of consumer goods produced last year.

CBS Comes Up to See Mae West But the Show's Too Hot to Handle

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—CBS Thursday canceled a Mae West appearance on television's "Person to Person" show. A spokesman said some of her answers were "to hot to handle."

The show was taped here for use Friday night. The curvacious Miss West, long a show business sex symbol, was interviewed by Charles Collingwood. It was Collingwood's first show as a replacement for Edward R. Murrow.

"It was felt," a CBS spokesman said, "that certain portions of the interview with Mae West might be misconstrued."

Mae contacted in San Francisco, commented: "Me misconstrued? I generally make myself clear. I've always been rather frank. Maybe that was the trouble.

"They asked me questions and I gave them the answers, and everyone has enjoyed my answers before."

Mr. and Mrs. James Mason will be the replacements. Said Mrs. Mason: "My husband will be delighted to hear I can stand in for Mae West."

In New York, CBS ran through the West tape for newsmen. She was modestly garbed in a full-length black gown with a wide white yoke collar.

She opened the program by assuring Collingwood: "Ask me anything the law allows and I hope I'll give you the right kind of answer."

Miss West told the familiar gag about the girl who gushed "Goodness!" over her diamonds. Her reply purportedly was: "Goodness had nothing to do with them, honey.'5'

Dual Spectaculars

Togetherness is the trend these days and Tech and Georgia are sharing the Grant Field stage Saturday in matinee and evening football performances expected to attract a record total of some 90,000 fans.

Tickets to the traditional Tech and Auburn game are collectors' items and rare gentlemen with a surplus supply reportedly are collecting $100 a pair for the ducats. Since not too many Mississippi State folks are accompanying the Maroons here, tickets to the Georgia contest are still available. They may be purchased at the Tech athletic office and John Jarrell's, but most of the pews are apt to be filled at kickoff.

Outlar

Hotels and motels were booked to capacity weeks ago. Restaurants and night clubs are stocked up for the biggest football weekend ever.

No one was busier Thursday, however, than the four gentlemen producing the show. Coach Bobby Dodd, freshly elected to football's Hall of Fame, paused for a few minutes at Tech to discuss his Engineers and the rival Plainsmen.

They say that the pressure is on Tech in this one. The Engineers are undefeated, the No. 4 team in the land, a blooming bowl debutante and an announced candidate for the SEC crown.

"Well, that's the kind of pressure I enjoy," Dodd said, smiling. "But there's always plenty of pressure on both teams in a Tech and Auburn game. We certainly respect this Auburn team, but we never worry too much about our boys getting up for this one."

The record verifies Dodd's statement that the Engineers are usually primed for Auburn. Over an 18-year span, Auburn has won only twice and the widest victory margin was 3-0.

But don't get the idea that Dodd and his troops are overconfident. The Chief Engineer quickly reminds you that Auburn is the same team which went to post as the SEC favorite over LSU. And he points out that the Plainsmen looked like champions while blasting Kentucky, 33-0, last Saturday.

"It stacks up as an even game," Dodd said. "Though we've played fine defensive football, Auburn may rate an edge over us on defense. We might hold a slight offensive edge over Auburn. I'd say the game probably will be decided about two touchdowns to one, either way."

—A Defensive Duel Forseen in the Sun

It should be noted that Tech has scored 14 or more points against four conquered foes.

Dodd prefers a dry field, but he doesn't think rain would particularly dampen the Engineer victory hopes.

Down on the Plain the students were whooping it up at a pep rally when Ralph Jordan answered his phone. You could hear the resounding cry of the War Eagle! But, as Jordan said, those folks aren't going to play Saturday.

You may rest assured that the men who'll play are also ready. Auburn coaches never have to get a team "up" for Tech. On the contrary, they have to calm down the overanxious troops.

"There's been a lot of talk about the pressure being on Tech in this game," Jordan said, "and perhaps it is. But I'll agree with Coach Dodd . . . a coach enjoys that pressure of being undefeated."

Jordan speaks with authority on that topic for, until Tennessee clipped the War Eagle wings, Auburn had not tasted defeat in 24 games.

"Tennessee took the pressure off the boys and put it on me," Jordan said, and chuckled.

Checking Tech films this week hasn't boosted Jordan's morale. "The pictures merely confirmed what Coach Joel Eaves, who scouted Tech, told me. This Tech team has ability, depth, speed and momentum, and that's about all you need to have a terrific Tech team.

"Fred Braselton has improved tremendously," Jordan continued. "I notice that Tech hasn't had a pass intercepted in four games. We've had seven.

"But we're looking forward to the game. I'm not kidding when I say that we're hurting at tackle. Ted Foret and Dave Woodward are injured, but they'll play some. How much? We just don't know. End Leo Sexton, the boy from Atlanta, pulled a thigh muscle, and he's not in top shape.

"However, we're in pretty good shape otherwise. I think you'll see a defensive game Saturday. Maybe one touchdown will decide it. You don't see any team scoring three touchdowns on Tech, and we've been fortunate enough not to have three scored on us in recent games."

—Offensive Fireworks Expected at Night

Coach Wallace Butts left a movie he wasn't enjoying to answer the phone in Athens. He had been watching Wade Walker's Maroons lose a game to Florida which they should have won.

"Mississippi State uses the double wing and the lonesome end," Butts said, "and they have very fast backs. We haven't run up against that formation this year, but State has bothered three teams with it, so I'm sure they'll cause us a lot of trouble.

"I promise you that Mississippi State is capable of playing any team in this league," Butts went on. "They've got some big, fast linemen to go along with those backs. This fellow Walter Suggs at tackle is about as tough as they come. They list him at 238, but he looks a lot bigger than that to me. Tom Goode, a 227-pound center, also knocks a lot of folks out of his way.

"It'll take at least three touchdowns for us to win it, and it'll be mighty hard to get that many. Don Soberdash and Fred Brown will play, and they should help us. And we'll need help."

Coach Walker has been watching the Bulldogs on film in Starkville, Miss., and he kicked off via long distance by saying that Georgia is as good as Coach Butts says State is.

"We really don't know about our team," Walker added. "We have a lot of sophomores, and we don't know what to anticipate. We were very pleased with their performance in general against Florida and Tennessee, but we got kicks blocked in both games. The double wing has worked fine for us. We've been able to move the ball. But we make mistakes. For example, one of our backs scored against Tennessee, but he dropped the ball before he crossed the goal. And that's always a mistake.

"And speaking of quarterbacks," Walker said, "those two Georgia boys are great. (Francis) Tarkenton is as accurate as a pro passer, and (Charlie) Britt must be just as good. I don't expect to play against two finer quarterbacks.

"Georgia has the passing game, the kicking game, and a tough defense, so you can't blame Wally for being optimistic."

Walker was interrupted and assured that Wally is not optimistic.

"Seriously, I think Georgia deserves to be a two touchdown favorite over us," Walker continued. "Will it be an offensive game? It will be if we can move the ball."

Well, the Maroons have moved it so far, so the nightcap figures to be an offensive production.

Bobby Dodd and Charley Trippi, living monuments to more than 30 years of football legend, arrived at the same time Friday at one inevitable stop along their equally famous trails to gridiron immortality.

The National Football Hall of Fame announced the selection of Dodd and Trippi to its team of all-time greats, along with eight other members including Clemson backfield coach Banks McFadden.

They include Herman Hickman, guard at Tennessee and head coach at Yale; James (Stan) Keck, Princeton tackle and a coach at Norwich, Princeton and Waynesburg, Pa., and Henry Disbrow Phillips, guard at the University of the South, 1902-3-4.

In addition to Dodd, Georgia Tech head coach; Trippi, Georgia backfield coach; and McFadden, all-time Clemson halfback; the surviving inductees include: Felix (Doc) Blanchard, Army fullback; Carl Hinkle, Vanderbilt center; Doak Walker, Southern Methodist quarterback; and Clarence (Biggie) Munn, Minnesota guard and now athletic director at Michigan State.

The addition of the 10 brings to 172 (125 players, 47 coaches) the number of greats named to the Hall of Fame, the building for which is to be erected on the

Rickey Here For 'Talks'

Rumor Mann Joining League Said 'Without Foundation'

By AL THOMY

Branch Rickey, president of the embryo Continental Baseball League, arrived in Atlanta early Thursday night and was met by Joseph Fine of Major Sports, Inc., a group dedicated to the advancement of professional athletics in the city.

On record as saying the three Continental vacancies "will be filled shortly," Rickey declined to give the specific purpose of his visit, other than he will "meet with a number of people" on Friday.

BRANCH RICKEY
Confers With Atlantans

Fine, who along with Eaton Chalkley of Carrollton, conferred with Rickey in New York recently, said he understood Rickey's trip was made for a "business purpose of his own."

Atlanta, through Major Sports, Inc., has placed an application for admittance to the Continental League. There is one major stumbling block in the city's bid for major sports, and that is lack of stadium and suitable facilities.

Bidding with Atlanta for a place in the Continental are New Orleans, Montreal, Buffalo and Fort Worth-Dallas.

Asked what progress had been made in selection of the needed three, Rickey replied, "We are gradually getting closer to the choices. That is partly why I am here.

"As you know, I am very much interested in Atlanta as a Southern representative of our league. It would not only represent the city, it would be a team for the whole area."

"Minneapolis has been our only cloud in the sky," said Rickey, "but I think even that will work out splendidly.

"Washington is a great major league city—I say that unreserved—and I'll be most surprised if they move."

If Washington goes West, would

Hall of Fame Lineup Looks Good to Dodd

Georgia Tech coach Bobby Dodd had just come off the practice field late Thursday afternoon when informed of his selection to the Hall of Fame.

By AL THOMY

Two-platoon football lives on at Georgia Tech, perhaps not in the heavy traffic of its heyday but two-way football, nontheless.

That head coach Bobby Dodd has been a fervent disciple of two-lane football is no secret. Dodd has long preached the benefits of unlimited substitution, and last year he tried it in a test run under present regulations. The experiment was abandoned as impractical.

Current two-platoon football at The Flats should be amended to two-boy football. For that is its extent in this unbeaten season.

"You might say that we platoon our quarterbacks," said Dodd Thursday as he watched his snappy Jackets run smartly through offensive and defensive drills.

"Fred Braselton, as everyone knows, has done a fine job on offense, and Marvin Tibbetts could not have been better in our defensive secondary. Braselton, you might say, scores for us and Tibbetts keeps the opponents from scoring. They have been an effective blend at quarterback."

Things were not always so. Tibbetts started the season as offensive quarterback, but after Braselton manipulated the attack successfully in the Kentucky opener, coaches called for a realignment. Tibbetts, they knew, could play defense as well as anyone. And so the day of the specialist returned to The Flats.

Tibbetts' value to the team has been as great as that of Braselton's. Among other things he (1) made a game-saving tackle of Kentucky halfback Calvin Bird, (2) intercepted a Don Meredith pass to stop SMU's final bid for victory and (3) tackled Tennessee tailback Gene Etter on the Tech nine-yard line when it appeared the shifty Vol might go all the way.

"Marvin does a fine job at safety on the goal line stands," added Dodd. "In fact, he is our key secondary defender as center Maxie Baughan is our key man up front. Then, too, he has played all positions in the backfield with the exception of fullback."

Following a custom from the very first game, Tibbetts has been the quarterback starter. Braselton sits on the bench and studiously sizes up the opposition before he is called upon for action.

"They are both fine boys, and Fred doesn't mind Tibbetts starting," said Dodd. "They work very well as a team. I think they form a good 1-2 punch."

Physically, Tibbetts and Braselton are strikingly similar. At 6-2, Fred is a couple of inches taller but they both weigh in at 190. Tibbetts, of course, came out of Atlanta's West Fulton High School, while Braselton migrated from Corpus Christi (Tex.) High.

Oddly enough, Braselton was a defensive specialist in high school and Tibbetts was an offensive stickout.

"Our two platoons have worked out fine," smiled Dodd, who admitted he was happy to have the "two units" for Saturday's date with Auburn.

On Thursday the Jackets went through regular pre-game drills on offensive and defensive manuevers, looking at Auburn patterns. Braselton's passing was sharp . . . The Techs answered their football quiz questions without a single miss . . . Only a light, timing session is planned for Friday . . . Bobby Dodd Jr., freshman quarterback at Florida, will be up to root for Dad's team Saturday.

WEATHER OR NOT--- IT LOOKS LIKE RAIN

Coach Bobby Dodd of Georgia Tech Thursday asked his secretary, Mrs. Margie Briggs, to obtain a weather report for the weekend and dispatch it to him on the Jacket practice field.

Several minutes later a messenger delivered the following note:

"Weatherman said rain just about over (he sounded as if it was over). Expect partly cloudy and cool tonight, low of 50. Looks like fair and warmer for Friday and Saturday. They do not expect it to rain Friday or Saturday. Not great amount of wind, probably like today, 10 to 15 miles per hour out of north or northeast."

He's Filled Wester's Shoes

By MICKEY LOGUE

Auburn again will rely on the strong shoulder of a football fugitive from south Georgia to pry running room in Georgia Tech's rugged line Saturday.

Wester's fierce blocking opened the gate for fullback Ed Dyas to storm into Tech's end zone standing up last season. Wester's clutch tackles helped favored Auburn preserve a tie in closing minutes.

After dropping the curtain on a nine won, one tied campaign, Wester's teammates chose him Auburn's most valuable 1958 player. Thus his graduation left Rice large shoes to fill.

Since he stands 6-2, weighs 250 pounds and has formed Auburn's most vital offensive and defensive line force in victories over Kentucky and Hardin-immons and a loss to Tennessee, Rice can hardly be classified as a secret weapon.

KEN RICE
100 Per Cent Effort

Senn Praises Full Time Play

The former Bainbridge High fullback has developed into the best tackle Auburn ever had, including All-American Frank D'Agostino.

"Ken has graded highest among our linesmen for three straight weeks," line coach Shot Senn said. "Besides his speed and strength, he is characterized by consistency. He doesn't make one good play and then relax the next three. Rice gives 100 per cent effort every play."

His movements and power have been compared favorably with those of ex-Kentucky All-American Lou Michaels, now a star in professional football.

Rice lists mathematics as about the toughest opponent he has met head-on at Auburn. However, he solved this problem permanently by marrying his tutor, a pretty Auburn coed.

Three other Peach Staters are scheduled for first or second unit duty against Tech. They are tackles Dave Woodward of Cedartown and Leon Myers of Chickamauga and quarterback Bryant Harvard of Thomasville.

PLAIN FACTS—Trainer Kenny Howard reports end Bobby Wasden improved as game-time nears. However, Wasden's practice efforts were curtailed by injury. . . . Cedartown's Joe Dolan has put in overtime at his punting specialty, further tribute to Gerald Burch's great booting. . . . John Kern and Jimmy Pettus, one-two in the SEC as punt-returners, also worked hard on runbacks.

'Big 8' Asked To Drop Pact

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The Miami News suggested Tuesday that the Big Eight might bow out of the next Orange Bowl football game rather than send a team into a mismatch that would damage the reputation of the conference and the bowl.

The Orange Bowl has contracted with the Big Eight to provide its champion each year, but with the provision that no team can come twice in succession. This is one of those Oklahoma-can't-come seasons.

Sports Editor Ed O'Neil of the news pointed out that the worst mismatch in the series involving the Big Eight came in 1955, when Duke beat Nebraska, 34-7. This year, he said, "has every promise of being as bad."

O'Neill quoted Reeves Peters, Big Eight commissioner, as saying "our representative team will be capable of playing anyone the Orange Bowl can get as an opponent. We have three teams coming along pretty good now—Kansas, Missouri and Nebraska."

All three have 2-2 records.

Even Oklahoma, the perennial Big Eight champ, has been beaten twice, by Texas and Northwestern.

There's a Good(e) Match for Burkett and Baughan

By DICK SEWELL

It's all a matter of syntax, but the best center on Grant Field Saturday in the college football doubleheader may also be good.

Everyone knows that there's a battle stewing between All-America Jackie Burkett of Auburn and Georgia Tech's Maxie Baughan, the AP's lineman of the week, when those national ranking teams play in the feature game at 2 p.m. Saturday.

But there's another center of attraction who will have to be considered when the plaudits are handed out late Saturday after Georgia and Mississippi State hook up at 8 p.m. in the nightcap of the twinbill.

A member of the Southeastern Conference All-Sophomore team in 1958, Goode, from West Point, Miss., was the dominant figure when the Maroons held Tennessee to 106 yards on the ground in losing to the Vols, 6-22, in their second game of the season.

In fact, Tennessee Coach Bowden Wyatt, no liberal when it comes to praise, said after the game, "Goode is the finest center we've faced in five years. He is a true All-American."

That opinion may have been changed when Maxie Baughan appeared in Shields-Watkins field last Saturday and the Vols lost to Tech, 14-7. But before Baughan, Goode had been the best center Wyatt's team had faced in half a decade.

Walker finds it easy to talk about Goode, too. "He has done a tremendous job for us this year. While he started with us late in the 1958 season, Tom has come along as fast as any lineman we've had."

Goode did a particularly outstanding job last fall when the Maroons almost upset national champion LSU, only to lose, 7-6. After the game the 20-year-old, who is majoring in industrial management, was selected lineman of the week by one of the newspaper polls.

While Goode has taken over the spotlight in the Mississippi State line, his fellow member of the SEC All-Soph squad, tackle Walter Suggs, 238-pounder from Hattiesburg, Miss., has not reached his full potential.

For Coach Walker this will be only the second time his Maroons have played Georgia. It was back in 1956 when State and the Bulldogs last tangled. Walker won his first game as head coach then, a 19-7 slapping of Wally Butts' eleven.

College Basketball Begins

Georgia Tech, Georgia and Auburn Thursday joined hundreds of NCAA schools in launching basketball practice for the 1959-60 campaign. It was the official beginning of the bounceball year.

Here at Alexander Memorial Coliseum, coach Whack Hyder drilled his 12 varsity men and 11 freshmen for two hours. Hyder has a talented returning cast, built around Captain Roger Kaiser, Wayne Richards and Dave Denton.

Red Lawson welcomed his new edition at Georgia. The Bulldogs return their flaming sophs of 1958-59, another year older and more experienced for the SEC wars. Gordon Darrah, Pat Casey and Don Keiser are the big names in Woodruff Hall.

At Auburn, coach Joel Eaves was still busy doubling with the football team, but the Plainsmen went into practice routines for what they hope will be another banner year. Eaves was working out ways and means to overcome a lack of height. Jimmy Fibbe, at 6-3, is tallest on The Plain.

The Auburn schedule disclosed the return of Kentucky to the Tigers' home court for the first time in six years. Wildcats play in the Loveliest Village Feb. 20.

Bulldogs Promote Thompson to No. 1

Big Daddy Dude Takes Over For Meeting with Maroons

By HORACE THOM
Special to The Constitution

ATHENS—Billy Joe (Dude) Thompson Thursday joined Bill Godfrey as a new face in Georgia's No. 1 unit and is due to start at center against Mississippi State in Atlanta Saturday night.

"Dude has been outstanding from our first scrimmage in September," commented Wallace Butts. "He has been the personification of reliability throughout the season, and seems to be getting better every week."

Dude Thompson

Actually, the handsome blond 6-2, 212-pound Gainesville senior has shared playing time all season with junior Phil Ashe of Stone Mountain, but Ashe has started all games to date.

As a sophomore, Dude played No. 2 center behind the mighty Dave Lloyd, but last year he was behind Lloyd and Ashe and did not play too much, although he did letter.

The oldest man on the squad (he was 26 May 17), the North Georgian probably is the most popular, too. His teammates call his "Big Daddy Dude."

Dude was an All-Star end at Gainesville High and was scheduled to come to Georgia in the fall of 1952, but he joined the Navy and served four years. He spent the entire hitch at Pearl Harbor and played football four years there, captaining the Blue Jackets.

He returned to Georgia in the fall of 1956 and was first-string end with the Bullpups, but moved to center in spring practice 1957.

Captain Don Soberdash, No. 1 right halfback last year and until he was injured (knee) early in the Vanderbilt game this year, is now more likely to see service at fullback, particularly on defense as a linebacker. But he may play both positions at one time or another. He is not expected to start, though.

The Bulldogs worked lightly Thursday and were in for more of the same Friday. They leave for Atlanta and Grant Field at 4:30 p.m. Saturday by bus.

Navy Invades Miami Seeking Third Win

From Press Dispatches

The big game on the Friday night football agenda is Miami's hosting of Navy in the Orange Bowl. A crowd of 50,000 is expected to see the Middies go for their first win in the last two games. Navy now is 2-2, having lost to SMU, 20-7 and to Syracuse, 32-6.

This will be Navy's first game in Florida. Miami has won two, Tulane and FSU and lost to national champion LSU, while the middies have bested Boston College and William & Mary.

In the only other major game on the Friday program, Utah (1-2) journeys to Denver (1-3) for a Skyline conference battle.

RICKEY

Continental go Washington?

"Well, I don't think we could do that without major league consent."

A rumor that Atlanta Cracker owner Earl Mann might join the Continental League in some official capacity was checked with the venerable Mahatma of baseball.

"I hope to see and talk with Mr. Mann," said Rickey, "but I can say there has been no approach to that. The rumor has absolutely no background."

In a recent statement Rickey was quoted as saying the World Series proved conclusively that there are enough players for a third major league. He pointed out that such series stars as Larry Sherry and Maury Wills of the Dodgers were minor leaguers when the season started.

Their performances supported his pet argument that the difference between major and minor league players of talent is only a uniform and time.

". . . in the Los Angeles club's pennant and World Series victories, you have the answer to the ridiculous argument that the Continental League will be unable to find enough players to man its eight clubs," he said.

At any rate, Rickey is to meet with a "number of people" Friday, and you can bet your last horsehide, the gathering will be a significant one for Atlanta's baseball future.

MARQUIS BAESZLER BULLDOZES FOR SOUTHWEST'S THIRD TD
Buddy Blankenship (L), Winfred Bailey Are the Fallen but Still Fighting Irish

Southwest Survives O'Keefe Air Raid

Baeszler, Spalding Carson 'Nip' Bailey, Blankenship, 19-18

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

Southwest's Wolves deservedly won a "one-run" decision, 19-18, even though O'Keefe's Buddy Blankenship and Winfred Bailey formed the greatest "battery" since Don Larsen and Yogi Berra teamed up for a perfect game in the 1956 World Series.

That employment of the baseball idiom for the City League's football thriller of the year best sums up what 3,500 pop-eyed witnesses saw but almost didn't believe at Cheney Stadium Thursday night.

Coach Bob Greer's Wolves, capatalizing on the bullish running of Marquis Baeszler and Bill Spradling, the passing of John Carson and a rawhide-tough defense that featured Steve Slay, Ronnie Schartle and Tommy Lewis, battered Dan Kennerly's green-clads into 19-0 submission by mid-third quarter.

But like all good Irishmen the Techwood Drive Irish refused to believe they were whipped. And they weren't, not yet. For it was at this point that tenth-grader Blankeship and junior Bailey decided to put on the greatest air show since General Clair Chenault's Flying Tigers buzzed through China skies.

Going into a spread formation quarterback Blankenship cut loose with rifle-true spirals of 24 and 30 yards that halfback Bailey gathered in with spectacular catches, the second one in the Southwest end zone with one second left in the third period.

Larry Walker pounced upon a Southwest fumble early in the fourth go-round and shortly Blankenship boomed a 49-yard punt dead on the Southwest one-yard line. After barefooted Charles Campbell punted out, Bailey made another great catch of a 32-yard Blankenship heave at the Southwest two. Then Blankenship nailed Phil Gober for the second O'Keefe TD with 3:43 left on the clock.

But that wasn't the end for Jack Oakes coiled around a Southwest bobble with 2:41 to go. And 10 seconds later it was 19-18 as Blankenship whipped a 35-yard scoring bomb to—you guessed it—Bailey. Their place-kicking game having failed, the Irish tried for the tie through the air, but Blankenship's pass was batted down. The Irish never again gained possession.

Carson romped 10 yards on the tag end of an 83-yard march for the Wolves' first-quarter score. Savage running by bullish Baezler (36 yards on 18 carries), Spradling (77 on 14) and Al Torbush did the job with aid of a 88-yard Carson-Spradling pass collaboration. Carson skirted end for what proved to be the winning point.

Tackle James Stone recovered a fumble 30 yards out to set up the score that assured the Wolves of setting a school record of three victories in a single season. Baezler, scoring his fifth of eight Southwest TDs, went over from three yards away midway the third quarter.

Halfback Jerry Gibbs and guard Bob Bullard were O'Keefe's defensive giants along with incomparable Bailey.

Johnson's TD Binge Rips Smith, 40-6

By DICK SEWELL

Goalbug-bit Johnny Johnson did about all he wanted to do the first half and then turned the quarterbacking over to Mark Litchenstein at Grady Stadium Thursday night, as Grady's Knights ripped Smith, 40-6, before a crowd of 3,000.

Hot Grady junior Johnson, a slight 5-7, program-weight 167-pounder, scored three touchdowns and one point-after-touchdown in directing the Coach Jack Fligg warriors to an uncontrollable, 27-0, halftime lead.

He did so well the initial two periods, Johnson hardly saw action in the second half. Instead, Litchenstein took over and passed for one touchdown, a 16-yarder to end Don Baxter, with 10:06 left in the game, and professionally directed the Knights to their last TD, a one-yard plunge by halfback John Anderson.

Johnson broke the game wide open with a nine-yard touchdown run, climaxing a first-quarter drive. He added the extra point himself. His other scores came on a beautiful option play, Johnson keeping the ball and scoring around right end on a 37-yarder in the second quarter, and on an 80-yard punt return with two minutes left in the first half.

The other six-pointer came in the first quarter when center Jerry Davis intercepted a pass from Smith quarterback Larry Williams on his own 30 and ran 70 yards for the score. Jim Howard booted three kicks from placement for the PATs.

Smith's only touchdown came with less than a minute remaining in the game. Guard Roy Mitchell intercepted a pass on his own 25 and ran it back to the Grady 12, where Williams hit end Richard Comer in the end zone.

Trippi, Dodd Join Hall of Fame

campus of Rutgers University, where football was born.

Selection of Dodd, All-America tailback at Tennessee in 1930, and Hickman, a teammate of Dodd's in 1929, gives the University of Tennessee five members including Gen. Bob Neyland, who coached them all. The others are Beattie Feathers, now backfield coach at Texas Tech, and Gene McEver, a Davidson, N.C., businessman. Dodd, Hickman and McEver all played together on Tennessee's 1929 team, undefeated in 10 games.

Georgia Tech now has the distinction of its entire history of head coaches owning membership in the Hall of Fame. John W. Heisman (1904-1919) and William A. Alexander (1920-1944) were elected several years ago.

Trippi, whose University of Georgia and Chicago Cardinal halfback career earned him "greatest ever" plaudits from both Dodd and the late great Jim Thorpe, is the third Georgia Bulldog in the Hall of Fame.

He joins Bob McWhorter, all-Southern halfback (1910-13) and Frankie Sinkwich, All-America tailback (1941-42).

At Knoxville, Tenn., General Neyland was a pleased man that two more of his pupils had been accorded the honor.

"Both of them richly deserve it," Neyland said, "Bobby wasn't exceptionally fast," Neyland recalled of Dodd. "But he was versatile, a good blocker, great kicker, fine passer and an exceptional defensive back . . . he played all backfield positions except wingback.

Dodd said he wasn't as good a football player as the General implied, but "I'm delighted at the selection. It is an honor which I appreciate very much."

"There wasn't anything Charley Trippi couldn't do as a halfback. He was everything you could want as a safety man, punter, pass receiver, passer and runner. Trippi is the greatest back I've ever seen."

"Charley deserves it as much as anyone who ever made it," Butts said. "He could do everything as a back."

The Georgia head man had applause for his coaching rival, Dodd.

"I saw Dodd play," Butts said, "And he was definitely good enough to be in the Hall of Fame. I am very happy that Bobby was given the honor."

Trippi called the award "a climax to a career I have enjoyed so much, I suppose that everybody who has ever played football has had the aspiration of being elected to the Hall of Fame. I am very fortunate to have played on such good teams that enabled me to get such recognition."

Steel Strike Slows Production Slightly

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Reserve Board reported Thursday that industrial production declined only slightly last month despite the steel strike. Its index fell one point to 148 per cent of the 1947-49 average.

The board indicated, however, that the steel walkout is having a greater impact this month.

It said that as of mid-October, inventories of steel were being rapidly depleted and output curtailments among steel consuming industries were spreading.

During September, it said, the steel strike had its greatest side impact in reducing activity in the railroad equipment and shipbuilding industries.

The board also said the copper strike which began in August was holding down output in the nonferrous mining and manufacturing industries. However, it said prestrike inventories permitted most machinery and consumer durable goods industries to maintain production.

The board's production index has declined steadily since reaching an all-time high of 155 in June.

Last month, output of both durable and soft goods shared in the decline from August production levels.

It said the volume of new autos manufactured in September increased less than usual from August although output recovered rapidly from the low reached during the model changeover period in early September.

By October, however, the rise in auto production was limited by steel shortages.

Macy's Sales A Record $471 Million

NEW YORK (AP)—R. H. Macy & Co., Inc., rang up record sales of $471,842,000 in the year ended Aug. 1, the company's annual report disclosed Thursday.

Net income was $7,775,000 or $3.84 a share. In the previous year the retail merchandise firm had sales of $456,359,000 and net income of $6,589,000 or $3.20 a share. (Macy subsidiaries include the Davison-Paxon Co., Atlanta.)

Jack Straus, chairman, and Wheelock Bingham, president, told stockholders, "The national economy is strong and continues to move forward, although the protracted steel strike may have a retarding affect."

Offerings Of Stock Dip Sharply

Lowes in 5½ Years Cash Abundant

WASHINGTON (AP) — Corporations offered $1,949,000,000 of new securities in the July-September quarter, the government said Thursday. This was the lowest three-month figure in 5½ years.

The Securities & Exchange Commission said the third quarter total was $700 million less than in the second quarter and one billion less than in July-September 1958.

"The lower volume of new securities reflects the strong cash position of most companies this year and the fact that the increase in 1959 outlays for plant and equipment has been moderate," the agency said.

For the first nine months of 1959, corporate offerings totaled $6,900,000,000 compared with $9,100,000,000 a year earlier. Of the third quarter offerings, $1,571,000,000 were deadline issues and $378 million were equity issues.

Cotton Closes 45 Up, 25 Off

NEW YORK (AP)—Cotton futures closed 45 cents a bale higher to 25 cents lower. The trading pace picked up moderately.

Current crop months advanced on mill and commission house buying. The upturn was credited in part to a strong demand for textiles, tightness in cloth supplies and growing buyer interest as far ahead as the third quarter of next year.

Beans Ease With Corn

CHICAGO (AP)—Soybean futures finished lower on the Board of Trade, continuing a decline that started with a sharp selloff Wednesday after recent advances.

Soybeans started lower on forecasts of clear weather over most of the midwest corn and soybean belt, which gave promise of early resumption of the long delayed harvest. Declines were held to fractions, however, by part of the forecast, which indicated showers in northern Minnesota and northwestern Illinois.
